Tighten Guard at U.S. Defense Plants

FORCES CALLED OUT SUDDENLY OVER NATION

Tactical Maneuvers, Sabotage Mentioned As Cause for Coast to Coast Action.

ARMY LEAVES CANCELLED

Anti-Aircraft Guns Placed Atop Plane Factories In California.

(By Associated Press)

Military and civil guards stood watch today at defense plants from coast to coast, summoned overnight by civilian authorities who spoke of sabotage and military officers who talked only of tactical maneuvers.

Highlighting the sudden activity from New England to California was cancellation of leaves of 14,000 Fort Dix, N. J., soldiers and a "practice alert" at Fort Custer, Mich., which was so realistic that officers confessed "it even fooled us."

Anti-aircraft guns were planted atop California plane factories, Los Angeles harbor ships were floodlighted, police guards were augmented in several cities and west coast "patriotic bodies" were asked to stand by.

Most spectacular of the military measures was the clamping on Fort Custer, Mich., of a "practice alert" which was so much like the real thing that Battle Creek police took to the streets to warn civilians against armed sentries.

"We have been advised that there is a threat to the security of the post and every precaution is being taken to safeguard the post," the office of the commandant announced last night. At once, sentries were increased, fire equipment went into position, guards took over the post's water and power supply and Battle Creek industrial concerns mustered full

Inmates Escape, Believed To Have Hopped Freight Train.

Believed to have hopped a northbound freight train, two farm trusties at the Ohio State reformatory escaped yesterday afternoon, Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said today.

The trusties, Willis Jones, 25, and Russell Pugh, 29, both sentenced from Belmont county, made escapes while working at the reformatory poultry farm near the railroad.

Jones was admitted last October 15 for rape with consent to serve from one to 20 years. Pugh was admitted on Dec. 4, 1939 for assault while attempting to rob and was to serve from one to 15 years.

Glattke said that the trusties were missed a few minutes after a freight train passed near the spot where they were working.

CUTS RATION

Finnish Government Reduces Meat Allotment, Situation Desperate.

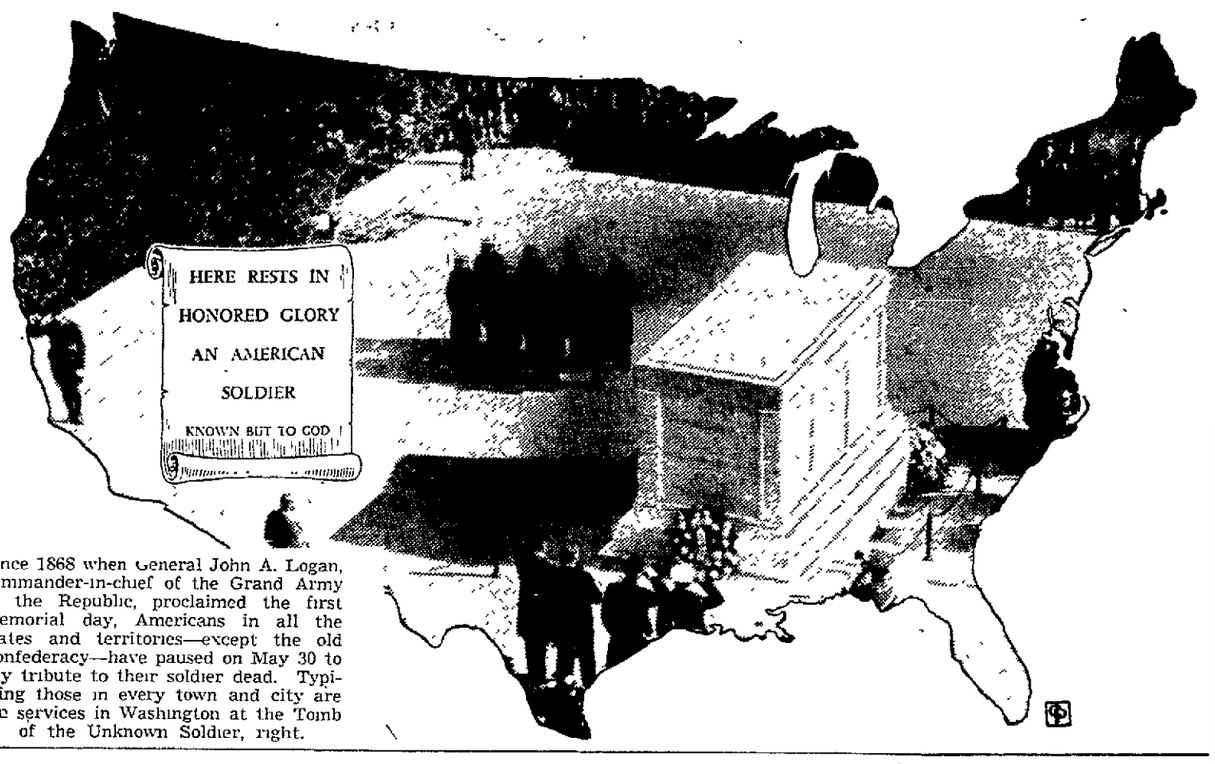
HELSINKI, Finland—(AP)—Finland's food situation reached a desperate stage today and the government halved the meat ration to about five cents worth weekly for each person.

Beer and other malt drinks were limited to 24 glasses a person for the month of June. The drinks are drawn against bread cards, which have been reduced a quarter for the coming month.

ENLARGE PLANT

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— Government orders for Diesel engines prompted the National Supply Co. to increase its manufacturing plant here by the construction of a new research and testing laboratory to cost $125,000. The building will be completed in 90 days.

Memorial Day—Americans Honor Dead for Nations War's



Since 1868 when General John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, proclaimed the first Memorial day, Americans in all the states and territories—except the old Confederacy—have paused on May 30 to pay tribute to their soldier dead. Typifying those in every town and city are the services in Washington at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, right.

NO ACTION ON RATE CONTRACT

Council Caucus Leaves O.P.S. Offer For Rate Reduction At Standstill.

At a caucus meeting called to consider a proposed ordinance for the reduction of Mansfield domestic electric rate, city council last night made little or no progress.

Five members attended and heard Russell D. Porch, chairman of the utilities committee, report what the members already knew—that the Ohio Public Service company could not change their rate scale as suggested by the committee. Four councilmen were absent.

Porch visited company officials Wednesday to attempt to have the rate for "middle-bracket" consumers made lower. J. A. Herbert, vice president and division manager of the company, told Porch that the rates were designed to benefit the greatest possible number of consumers and that the proposal would give sizable reductions to more than 80 per cent of the electric users.

Attending last night's meeting with Porch were Councilmen C. N. Shultz, George C. Kyle, J. J. Kutschall, and Arthur L. Croak. Shultz said that Porch made his report and a short discussion of the rates took place, but no action was taken, although the company

REVENUES UP

Profit, Gallonage Revenues Hit $5,000,000 Total.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Director Jacob B. Taylor today reported net profit and gallonage tax revenues of $5,574,717 from the state liquor monopoly during the first four months of 1941—an increase of $336,000 over the corresponding period a year ago and up $699,000 from the first third of 1939.

Sales for the period were $19,512,226, a rise of $2,243,000 from 1940 and $3,400,000 from 1939.

Champagne Party Interrupted As Cruiser Nabs French Ship

(By Associated Press)

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad—Intercepted at sea by a British cruiser while passengers were celebrating with champagne their expected arrival at Martinique, the 8,379-ton French passenger ship Winnipeg is in Port-of-Spain harbor and hundreds of her German passengers have been interned.

Two American-born women told today how scores of Germans bound for the French colony of Martinique threw hundreds of letters and other papers into the ocean after the cruiser had fired a shot across the Winnipeg's bow and escorted her to Trinidad.

Of the 751 passengers aboard, 210 Germans, 76 Austrians and 70 unclassified persons have been interned pending investigation while the remaining passengers are being examined aboard the vessel.

The two American-born women among those already examined and released are Mrs. Antoine Peissel, the former Martha Seale of 3712 Junius street, Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. Marcel Lowenstein, bound from Paris to Stamford, Conn.

The women, who are accompanied by their French husbands, told a dramatic story of their 26-day voyage from Marseille to Trinidad by way of Oran, Algeria,

Memorial Day Holiday Slows Output for National Defense

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A Memorial day holiday to honor the dead of past wars brought almost to a halt today the nation's urgent preparations to meet the threat of another armed conflict.

Wreath-laying ceremonies, military parades, patriotic exercises, and the holiday plans of millions of individuals took temporary precedence over virtually all defense efforts.

Even before dawn a three-day week-end "blackout" started for many of the principal aircraft plants which have been working around the clock on urgent orders for warplanes for American and British armed forces.

The holiday "blackout" was relieved in one instance by dedication of a new munitions plant at Greenfield, Mass., one of seven contracted for by the war department last fall to double the output of inspection and other gages used in the production of munitions.

Otherwise reports indicated the suspension was widespread. A navy order to shipyards turning out warships directed a holiday for all civilian employes, except those necessary for maintenance. The national holiday applied as well to plants at work on sorely needed cargo vessel replacements for the battle of the Atlantic.

Principal aircraft plants reported operations would cease for three days, indicating a maximum reduction of 10 per cent in the month's output of warplanes.

PLANS COURSE

O. S. U. Professor Will Train Explosive Chemists.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Estimating that 7,000 explosive chemists are needed in newly constructed powder factories, Dr. Herrick L. Johnson of the Ohio State university department of chemistry announced today that he would direct from June 21 to Aug. 1 a free-tuition full-time course in chemistry explosives.

Offered as a part of the engineering defense program of the government, applications will be limited to 35 students who have completed three years of college chemistry.

O. S. R. FACING WATER PROBLEM

Serious Shortage Threatened Because of Drought; Help From City Possible.

Drought conditions in Richland county, which have already endangered crops, were blamed today for the threat of a serious water shortage for 3,000 inmates of the Ohio State reformatory.

Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke announced that although no curtailment of the use of water has been ordered as yet, an excessive drop in the water table serving the district made such action probable in the next few days

Glattke said that the water table which serves the area to the north and east of the city, a different table than that feeding the city, has dropped to 35 feet. Wells on reformatory property provide the institution's only water supply.

The superintendent said that he had already written state officials advising them of the water shortage threat and had also gone to Columbus personally for the same purpose. He indicated that state officials might approach the city to obtain water service for emergency use.

If the reformatory needs water from city lines, a line would have to be laid for a distance of more than a mile from the Longview avenue station.

In the meantime, wells at the reformatory are being sunk deeper in an effort to reach the lowered table and new wells are being started.

Glattke said that no discomfort

Fish Can't Wait To Be Caught, It Jumps Into Boat

MIAMI, Okla.—(AP)—The fish couldn't wait to be caught when the "Fishathon," one of the nation's biggest fresh water angling derbies, was launched today on the beautiful new "Lake o' the Cherokees."

At 12:01 o'clock this morning, three aerial bombs exploded to signal the start of the season and simultaneously a black bass weighing one and one-half pounds leaped into a fisherman's boat.

At least, that's the testimony of J. H. Giffin, Miami police commissioner, who brought the enthusiastic bass to "Fishathon" headquarters and swore he saw it make the fatal leap.

Some 2,000 persons have registered in the contest for $2,500 in fishing prizes and Gayle Pickens, assistant Ottawa county attorney and president of Fishathon, Inc., predicted 10,000 would compete the first week-end.

BOW TODAY IN TRIBUTE TO SOLDIER DEAD

Mansfielders Pay Respects At Central Park, Cemetery Exercises During Day.

PARADE STARTS AT 2 P. M.

G. A. R. to Be Absent From Line of Marchers for First Time Here In 76 Years.

For the first time in 76 years not a single faded blue uniform of the Grand Army of the Republic will appear in the lines of marching veterans in the annual Memorial Day parade honoring Mansfield's soldier dead today.

Not one veteran of the Civil War remains to represent his fallen comrades among the many Mansfielders who will symbolically bow their heads in memorial services first at Central Park and later in the Mansfield cemetery.

Mansfield's old fire bell will signal the start of the Memorial Day parade at 2 p. m. The parade will proceed through the down town district to Mansfield cemetery.

At the cemetery, Atty. Charles R. Barefoot of Toledo, will give an address eulogizing the soldiers of past years.

Marching with the thinning ranks of veterans will be the American Legion drum and bugle corps, three Mansfield high school bands, city officials, Boy and Girl Scouts and several veteran and patriotic organizations.

Before monuments and on the tops of hundreds of graves, Mansfielders will place floral tributes today. Gold Star Mothers and unhonored "Gold Star" fathers will bow their heads just a bit lower when the eulogies are read.

On the lighter side, children and adults will officially open their summer spree of swimming and other recreation. Hundreds are expected to swarm into the Liberty park and Casino pools while countless others

MAX ALIVE

Germans Say Schmeling's In Hospital, Spike Rumors.

BERLIN —(AP)— Germany officially spiked today a report that former heavyweight boxing champion Max Schmeling was killed fighting in Crete as a Nazi parachutist, announcing he was alive but in an air force hospital with a minor attack of a tropical disease.

(A New Zealand ambulance driver, arriving at Alexandria, Egypt, from Crete, said yesterday Schmeling had been captured by imperial forces and in attempt to escape had been shot. In London a British official said "there appears to be no reason why German sources should say Schmeling is alive if he is not."

Germans said Schmeling had been active in the German invasion of Crete, but was removed to the hospital, presumably off the island, when illness laid him low.

SIX INJURED IN TRAFFIC CRASH

Mansfielders Hurt When Autos Collide North of City; Three In Hospital.

Six persons injured, three of them in a hospital, represented the Mansfield area's accident toll early today at the beginning of a week-end holiday which is expected to show a marked increase in traffic mishaps because of heavy travel on highways.

Adding hazard to the crowded thoroughfares last night was a driving rainstorm and later a pea-soup fog which blanketed the district.

The six injured were hurt in the same accident late yesterday at the intersections of State Routes 178 and 96, five miles north of Mansfield.

Admitted to Shelby Memorial hospital was Mrs. Edith M. Stout, 60, of 819 Springmill street; Iva Jennings, 33, of Ashland R. D. 1, and her daughter Dorothy, 9.

Mrs. Stout suffered a fractured shoulder. Mrs. Jennings sustained a fractured pelvis, hospital authorities said, and her daughter had a skull fracture. Condition of all was reported "fairly good," early today.

Treated for cuts and bruises were Mrs. Martha Martin, 182½ Sturges avenue, who was riding with Mrs. Stout; William Jennings, 39, driver of the other car; and his four-year-old son, James.

State highway patrolmen who investigated the crash said the cars collided at the intersection. Mrs. Stout was driving south on Route 178 and Jennings was going west on route 96.

Island Battle To End Shortly Say Spokesmen

Claim British, Greeks Being Crushed By Drives, Hint New Operations Scheduled to Start as Ports Of Escape Are Captured.

BULLETIN

ROME—(AP)—The 17,879-ton Italian liner Conte Rosso, laden with troops, has been sunk by a torpedo south of Syracuse, Sicily, but most soldiers aboard were saved, Italian high command said today.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—German and Italian troops, driving across Crete from opposite directions, are rapidly crushing the British-Greek defenders in a powerful, viselike grip from which there is no escape, informed sources said today.

The battle for the island, now in its 11th day, will be ended in a few days, military spokesmen declared. They hinted the Axis forces are planning bigger and more far-reaching operations to be undertaken without delay.

These assertions were interpreted generally by observers as indicating the Germans proposed to use Crete as a base for Luftwaffe attacks on Alexandria and the Suez canal.

Development on the island during the past 48 hours, informed Germans said, have left the British and Greeks in such dire straits that they face a choice between annihilation or surrender.

The major avenues of escape have been closed by the capture of all principal embarkation points, including Canea, Suda bay and Candia on the north shore, these sources declared.

British troops were reported concentrating on the rockbound southern coast in an attempt to embark in small boats there, but the Germans said the Nazi air force was subjecting them to a terrific pounding and would prevent any flight in that direction.

Two more British destroyers were sunk by Nazi bombers in Cretan waters yesterday and British troops moving through a valley south of Retimo were repeatedly attacked by Stukas, informed sources said. Columns of trucks and artillery set up to protect their movement southward were machine-gunned from low altitudes, these informants declared.

A heavy aerial attack was reported yesterday on British troops assembled at Sphakia, where buildings were said to have been fired. Four grounded British planes were destroyed in an attack on a hastily constructed airfield at Tympakion

MORE IDLE

Perkins Says April Strikes Involve 500,000 Workers.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Secretary Perkins said today that strikes during April involved more than four times as many workers as in March "and there was more than five times as much idleness."

Altogether, the labor secretary reported, there were 400 new strikes last month affecting approximately 500,000 workers and resulting in 7,800,000 man-days of idleness. She added, however, that the bituminous coal stoppage, in effect all month, accounted for approximately two-thirds of the total workers and more than three-quarters of the man-days lost.

The labor department's conciliation service adjusted 367 strikes, lockouts, threatened strikes and other labor disputes in April.

World War Hero Calls for All-Out Aid to Britain In Arlington Talk

Strikes at Isolationism Advocates, Calls for No Compromise.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Before the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Sergeant Alvin C. York called today for immediate all-out aid to England, and added "if that means that we have to use convoys, then we should use them.

The tall Tennessee mountaineer who became one of the outstanding heroes of the World war A. E. F. was invited as principal speaker at Memorial day ceremonies in Arlington National cemetery.

In his prepared address, York struck out at advocates of "isolationism." He declared that Senator Wheeler (D-Mont) "ought to know by now that you can't protect yourself against bullets with an umbrella." "To "a United States senator whose favorite bird must be the ostrich" York coupled a reference to "a famous transatlantic aviator." Both, he said, "feel differently than the veterans do about this country's most pressing problems." For the veterans and patriotic organizations thing they fought to keep."

The ceremonies on the green Virginia hillside overlooking the Potomac were preceded by a parade of military units, veterands and patriotic organizations in the capital. Small American flags fluttered beside each of the uniform stone grave markers which extend in military preci-

BERLIN — (AP) — Informed Germans said today Nazi troops had captured 700 prisoners, many motor vehicles and armored cars and much gasoline at Candia, Crete.

BERLIN—(AP)—German outpost boats in the English channel reported a bitter fight with British speed boats last night and claimed to have sunk at least one.

ROME—(AP)—British warships which attempted to prevent landings of sea-borne Axis reinforcements on Crete are withdrawing toward Alexandria under constant Italian aerial attacks, the high command said today.

sion over many acres of the National cemetery.

York said he and other veterans of the World war frequently were asked what they had gained by fighting "to make the world safe for democracy."

"Let me answer them now," he said. "It got me 23 years of living in a country where the Goddess of Liberty is stamped on men's hearts, as well as on the coins in their pockets. . . .

"By our victory in the last war, we won a lease on liberty, not a deed to it. Now, after 23 years, Adolf Hitler tells us that lease is expiring, and after the manner of all leases, we have the privilege of renewing it, or letting it go by default. I have no doubt that the American people choose to renew it, Senator Wheeler to the contrary notwithstanding."

Calling for no compromise with Hitler, he declared that if England should fall, America would be next on the Nazis' list.

"England," he said, "is fighting for her life—for the right of her people to be free. We have always fought for that right. If we have stopped, then we owe the memory of George Washington an apology, for if we have stopped, then he wasted his time at Valley Forge."

In other exercises, tribute was paid by the capital to the dead of the Civil war and Spanish American war.

Under the auspices of the American Legion, afternoon services were arranged in Arlington in honor of members of the A. E. F. buried in France and Belgium. German occupation of western Europe prevented the customary exercises in the military cemeteries abroad.

quotas of watchmen and special police.

When the word came that it was all in practice, Capt. Richard Merrick, intelligence officer, confessed "it even fooled us."

Meanwhile, at Fort Dix, N. J., Memorial day leaves of 14,000 men were cancelled without explanation. Some of the men, who had already left camp, were ordered to be back by reveille tomorrow. Police patrolled terminals to notify soldiers of the cancellation. Leaves were not reported cancelled at other army posts.

In southern California anti-aircraft guns and army pursuit planes were established at aviation plants but military authorities said the moves were "tactical maneuvers."

Headquarters were established at the aircorps hangar at Los Angeles, near the North American Aviation Aircraft plant. Soldiers manned anti-aircraft guns at the Consolidated Aircraft plant at San Diego, at the Douglas company's Santa Monica and El Segundo plants. At Lockheed's Burbank factory and at the Vultee Aircraft plant at Downey. In some cases the guns were mounted on the roofs of the factories as military planes stood nearby.

In San Francisco extra guards patrolled the water front and city officials spoke of possible sabotage efforts over the weekend holiday. Extra police were mobilized there because, said Joseph F. Marias, president of the state board of harbor commissioners, "we can't take any chances."

Armed guards went on duty at the Huntington Beach oil field near Los Angeles at the request of Mayor M. M. McCallen. Capt. W. H. Bachman of the Los Angeles harbor police said officers had been placed at strategic points in the harbor and added:

"Every steamship company and major industrial unit in the port area has called special patrolmen and have floodlighted their facilities."

He said also that "certain patriotic bodies" had been called upon to hold themselves in readiness.

At Buffalo, N. Y., Police Commissioner Austin J. Roche ordered extra policemen to guard defense industries and instructed the officers to "visit frequently all plants engaged in defense work and contact the plant police or guards on each visit until further orders."

In New York City, the Herald-Tribune said orders had been given to augment the police sabotage patrol on the Brooklyn water front and that extra guards had been posted at the Republic Aircraft corp., plant at Farmingdale, Long Island.

At scattered points in New England, guards were posted and a Fitchburg, Mass., manufacturer reported he had been advised by the war department to expect sabotage efforts over the weekend. Guards were also reported at Cambridge, Mass., and Woonsocket, R. I. At Woonsocket two companies of state guards were sworn in by the police commission as special constables to watch factories.

HUNT MOLESTER

Police Told Colored Man Accosted Woman.

H. W. Minnear, merchant policeman, reported to police today that a colored man had attempted to molest his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Norvel Minnear, last night at the rear of their home, 15½ East Third street.

Minnear said that the colored man, whom Mrs. Minnear described to police, had accosted her at the foot of stairs leading to the home and grabbed her by the throat.

The molester fled east on Dickson avenue when Minnear came to his daughter-in-law's assistance, he said.

NEW SALE SET

Sheriff To Offer 149 Lots, 43 Acres of Land.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson will try a second Saturday to sell 149 lots and 43 acres of land in the Lincoln Heights area on a delinquent tax foreclosure judgment.

The properties, appraised at a total of $3,741, were offered at sheriff's sale several weeks ago, but they attracted no bidders. They were re-appraised at a lower figure and re-advertised. The sale tomorrow will be at 10 a. m. at the courthouse.

The lots are now appraised at figures ranging from $12 to $45 each. Value of the farm, located south of the Lincoln Heights school, is $1,200.

The properties first were involved in an action brought by Bessie Williams against John Constance and others as the owners. County Treasurer John E. Kolb then filed a cross-petition to collect delinquent taxes and was awarded a judgment.

SIX ARRESTED

5 Facing Speeding Charges; Court Hearings Set.

Six motorists were arrested by state highway patrolmen last night as the first of the Memorial weekend traffic violators. Five were arrested on charges of speeding and the sixth for alleged unsafe operation of a motor vehicle.

Three of the drivers were arrested after they were found racing each other at excessive speed on U. S. Route 42, according to highway patrolmen. In the trio were Paul M. Noyes, 26, of Fredonia, N. Y.; John V. Clemence, 30, of Euclid; and David Peacock, 38, of Dayton. Peacock posted bond for appearance in municipal court Monday and Noyes and Clemence for appearance tomorrow.

Don C. Le Coumpte, 27 of Dayton, also posted bond for a Monday appearance after being arrested on a charge of speeding. John Wengren, 20, Cleveland, was charged with unsafe operation on the same highway and gave bond for arraignment tomorrow.

Glenn Smith, 20, Shelby R. D. 3, paid a fine of $10 and costs when arraigned before Acting Mayor F. C. Long in Shelby on charges of speeding. He was riding a motorcycle on State Route 39 when arrested by highway patrolmen.

HURL BRICKS

But Southern Girls Only Want Fighting Irish To Write.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — (U.P.) — Pretty southern girls hurled Irish confetti—"bricks" — at members of the Fighting Irish regiment, the 165th infantry from New York, as they passed through here en route to war maneuvers in central Tennessee.

The bricks, however, were wrapped with paper on which the girls' addresses were written with the plea, "please write." (The outfit is the famed Fighting 69th).

and Casablanca, French Morocco, in a vessel they said was intended to carry on a small fraction of the 751 accommodated.

Food was running low, they said, but champagne flowed freely Monday night in celebration of the expected docking on Tuesday at Martinique.

Suddenly, they said, at 2:30 a. m. a shot came across the Winnipeg's bow.

Soon thereafter, they reported, scores of Germans rushed to the portholes and threw out letters and other papers.

Through the next day, en route to Trinidad, papers continued to be thrown out until a trail of letters bobbed in the vessel's wake. Even typewriters went overboard, Mrs. Peissel said.

While the Germans were interned pending investigation, officials said all with genuine American visas would be allowed to continue to the United States.

Among the passengers still aboard was a French girl reported to be a granddaughter of Sarah Bernhardt.

Among those released was Capt. Antonio Olivia, Mexican military attache at Vichy.

Officials were silent on what would be done about the Winnipeg herself.

(The seizure of the French ship was reported Tuesday in Washington and French Ambassador Gaston Henry-Haye called at the state department for information.)

FACES DEATH IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

24-Year-Old Man Convicted of Murder in Shooting.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Death in the Ohio penitentiary electric chair faces 24-year-old Wayne Thompson, convicted of first degree murder in the fatal shooting of grocer Carl Hoover. A criminal court jury failed to recommend mercy.

Thompson late yesterday calmly received the jury's verdict, which made the death penalty mandatory, and told Probation Officer Joseph Palmer: "Well, that's it. I don't want no new trial."

Defense Attorney Howard H. Gillard announced, however, that he would file a new trial motion and Judge Cecil J. Randall deferred sentence pending a hearing.

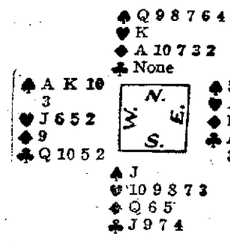
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE TOO DEFINITE

If somebody asks you what you would do in a particular situation, it may pay you to indicate a bit of doubt. There are some bidding sequences so complex that the greatest players will admit they are not quite sure what they would do. Either decision may prove profitable or costly, and only those claiming clairvoyant powers



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	Pass

Pass	2 ♠	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	Pass	3 ♦

or some supreme kind of intelligence may pose as knowing positively just what should be done.

Wouldn't you consider it pretty hard for North to keep from injecting that diamond overcall, after he had passed once? And then, after he was doubled, could you blame him for then bidding his seven-card spade suit? Even after West had bid it? Certainly not, if you knew West as a player who occasionally sticks in a slick psychic.

And then, after that had been doubled, too, what would you do in South's position? Would you let your partner play it in the suit in which you held a singleton jack, instead of the one in which you had three cards headed by the queen? Would you have any way of knowing he would be set only two tricks at the 2-Spades and four at the 3-Diamonds? You surely would not.

If you feel like calling any of these players palookas, just note that West was Theodore A. Lightner, North Myron Fuchs, East Oswald Jacoby and South Robert A. McPherran, and that they were battling their hardest in the final of the Vanderbilt cup.

At the other table of the match, West opened the deal with 1-Spade, so North, Howard Schenken, did not get a chance to make an overcall at only two after having once passed. Hence he never got in the bidding. East and West therefore played at 3-No Trumps, making five, for 460 points, whereas Schenken's teammates scored 1,100 points where the bidding was as shown above.

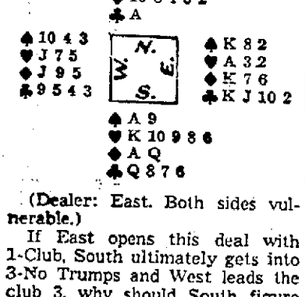
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

If East opens this deal with 1-Club, South ultimately gets into 3-No Trumps and West leads the club 3, why should South figure out the logical line of play which will make his contract plus an overtrick?

VISE CLOSING ON BRITISH IN CRETE BATTLE

Axis Claims Avenues of Escape Are Cut Off; End of Fight Expected.

on the Gulf of Mesara, German news reports said.

Unopposed landing of seaborne Italian reinforcements on the eastern end of the island was cited by the Germans as proof that the British navy no longer was in position to participate in the defense of Crete.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter declared British naval units had disappeared from the waters around Crete under repeated attacks by Nazi dive bombers.

(The British said some reinforcements have been landed on Crete—without indicating when—but acknowledged the pressing need of air support. They admitted the situation was becoming increasingly grave.)

A military spokesman said pockets of British resistance still existed at some points in northern and western Greece but that they were rapidly being mopped up.

Crete Defenders in Last Desperate Stand

LONDON —(AP)— British-Greek forces in Crete fought with their backs to the wall against growing odds today and informed sources grimly acknowledged the defense of the island appeared to be entering its last desperate stages.

RAF bombers and long-range fighters, operating from Egyptian bases at least 350 miles away, were reported stabbing at the northern shores of Crete in an attempt to delay the landing of German reinforcements, but military circles said there was pressing need for still stronger air support.

German claims that the British and their Greek allies already were attempting to flee from the island went unanswered.

Informed quarters, however, generally accepted Berlin reports that Candia—as well as Canea and Suda Bay—were in German hands.

British troops were reported still in possession of Retimo, approximately midway between Canea and Candia on the northern coast, though the Germans were said to be advancing steadily toward the town after beating off repeated counter-attacks.

Official sources said they had no confirmation of Italian reports that Fascist tro_s had landed on Crete, but declared it probably was true.

The London press took a glum view of the situation, emphasizing the lack of British air power and losses sustained by the Royal navy in attempting to block the landing of sea-borne Axis troops.

(The British have acknowledged the loss of three cruisers and four destroyers and damage to other naval craft in Cretan waters.)

"We are hard-pressed in Crete," declared the Daily Express. "The Germans had only air power to pit against sea power, land power and Crete patriotism, but they have obtained a firm foothold on the island.

"They have taken a heavy toll of our warships. They have made it safe to land even some of the jackal Italians."

The Daily Herald's military expert emphasized that possession of Canea and Suda Bay probably would make it possible for the Germans to bring in "the modern armament he knows so well how to use, and our position will be still further worsened."

The size of the German air fleet already based on Crete was emphasized by RAF reports that a concentration of more than 100 Nazi aircraft had been bombed at one point on the northwest end of the island on Tuesday night.

Military sources estimated that 60,000 to 70,000 men—roughly half on each side—now were engaged in the fighting on Crete, which was described as the fiercest of the war, with hand-to-hand combats raging in many areas.

(Exact numbers on both sides have not been announced but several days ago the British said they feared that their forces had become outnumbered by continued landings of Nazi troops.)

Naval Bases Targets For Nazi Air Raids

BERLIN—(AP)—Naval bases at Portland and Plymouth and the port of Torquay were the main targets of Nazi air attacks on the English western and southern coasts last night, the official German news agency, DNB, said today.

A 4,000-ton merchant ship was destroyed by bombs off Pentland firth, the agency added.

(The British government said there was little German air activity over Britain during the night, though bombs were dropped at one point in the south without causing damage or casualties.)

Withdrawal Hems In Italians at Gondar

LONDON —(AP)— Italian forces at Gondar, a pocket of Italian resistance in northwest Ethiopia, have been hemmed in by a Fascist withdrawal from Debarech, on the Aduwa road 50 miles to the north, authoritative British reports said today.

British imperial forces moving against Gondar in the sector north of Lake Tana are composed principally of Ethiopians commanded by British officers, these sources said.

At the beleaguered, British-held port of Tobruk on the North African front, British forces were said to have made a thrust at the Axis' dent in the western perimeter of the Libyan port's defenses.

Around Salum, just on the Egyptian side of the Libyan frontier where Axis vanguards recently have been active, these reports said there were only patrol skirmishes.

Wins Fellowship

T. C. Vanosdall, shown above, instructor of chemistry at Ashland college, has been awarded a fellowship at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, for research in analytic chemistry in preparation for his doctor's degree. Prof. Vanosdall, who plans to assume his new studies in September, has been a member of the Ashland college faculty for two years. He received his A. B. degree from Ashland college in 1932 and his M. S. degree from Ohio State university in 1939. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vanosdall of Sharp street.

NO ACTION ON RATE CONTRACT

Council Caucus Leaves O.P.S. Offer For Rate Reduction At Standstill.

submitted its proposal more than nine weeks ago, the committee has not made a report on its offer as yet.

For most of the nine weeks, the committee has wrangled over rates offered different cities in various parts of the state. No new ordinance has been drafted as yet because of efforts by the committee to insert "protective" clauses to make the rules of the Ohio Public Utilities commission binding in the contract. These rules, according to company officials, would be binding whether or not they are included in the ordinance.

Fred Miller, member of the committee, was unable to attend last night's meeting but had assured Porch earlier that he would support the offer if a vote was taken.

Porch said that no vote was taken last night. It was expected that council, at the caucus session, would either accept or reject the rate offer which would save electric consumers $70,000 annually.

Approval if only by a "gentleman's agreement" would have given the company the "go ahead" signal for preparation to make the lower rate available by July 1 as it had proposed.

Because state laws requiring a 30-day wait following the signing of rate contracts, it will probably be impossible for the new rates to go into effect by that date unless council finds extraordinary powers in its regular June meeting Tuesday.

PLAN BUILDING

Westbrook Members Discuss Clubhouse Construction.

Preliminary plans for the construction of a new clubhouse to replace the one destroyed by fire at Westbrook Country club Wednesday were discussed at a meeting of the club's members last night, C. F. Fighter, secretary-treasurer, said today.

Trustees of the club will meet next week to make definite plans for the building. Last night's meeting was devoted almost entirely to an inventory of the losses in the fire. Fighter estimated the loss at about $75,000.

Club officials said that golfing would continue as usual on the course. The locker house was saved from the flames by Mansfield firemen.

G. O. P. Council Meeting Held At Headquarters

Fifty were present Wednesday noon for the meeting of the Richland county Republican Women's Council which was held at headquarters. Reports were given by Mrs. Carl Spangler and Mrs. Martha Martin on the convention held recently, and Mrs. Camp Smeltzer told of the Ohio Federation meeting in Columbus which she attended.

Mrs. R. C. Klopfenstine furnished the program, giving a talk on "National Defense." Plans were made for the dedication of the headquarters at a joint meeting with the men's organization on June 10 in the club rooms. This will be a dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m.

HOLIDAY SLOWS DEFENSE OUTPUT

Week-end Blackout Hits Most of Nation's Biggest Aircraft Plants.

the shutdown extends from 5:30 a. m. Friday to 7 a. m. Monday. The Boeing plant in Seattle, Wash., which produces long range four motor bombers for the army and Britain, reported a Friday holiday except for a special staff.

The Curtiss and Bell plants at Buffalo, source of high speed fighters, ordered a shutdown from the final shift of Thursday night until Monday morning, with only skeleton staffs on duty. Curtiss officials explained the shutdown represented a "brief vacation" for employes who have agreed to forego their regular summer vacations in the interest of speeding production.

Detroit automobile plants shut down but kept at the task of tooling up to manufacture bomber parts.

Memorial day is one of seven legal holidays for the army and navy, but soldiers at some posts were placed on the alert, apparently for surprise maneuvers over the week-end. Among such posts were Fort Custer, Mich., and Fort Dix, N. J. At other training centers, however, intensive military instruction was put aside for the traditional noon ceremonies of raising the colors from half mast to the accompaniment of 21-gun salutes.

At sea, however, the navy's patrol force kept on the alert to guard against extension of Europe's conflict to this hemisphere.

In the nation's capital, most government activities were suspended, except for a few key officials. Secretary Hull was one who remained on duty along with a staff of state department officials to keep in touch with international developments.

TROOPS CALLED

Force Needed To Restore Order After Love Killing.

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—They had to send troops to the little village of Santa Ana, Jalisco, to restore order today after a love affair resulted in a shooting affray in which five were killed and two injured.

The whole village took sides in the case, which brought death to a young lover, two of his brothers and two brothers of the girl.

It takes a shrewd man to dispose of his property in a way that will shut out the lawyers as well as his relatives.

Valedictorians at Ashland

With a straight A average through four years of high school, Donald Fluke, shown above at the right, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Fluke of Nankin, and Miriam Chandler, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Chandler of Dorchester street, Ashland tied for highest honors in the senior class of 1941, at Ashland high school. They will share honors of class valedictorians. Miriam has been secretary of the junior class, vice president of the Thespians, treasurer of the algebra club in addition to maintaining a perfect scholastic record. Donald has been a member of the Kent scholarship team each year. In the senior scholarship test he was first in the county, third in the district and seventh in the state. He has been a winner in the American Legion essay contest three times.

O. S. R. FACING WATER PROBLEM

Serious Shortage Threatened Because of Drought; Help From City Possible.

was being experienced by inmates of the reformatory. The superintendent said that water was being supplied as usual but that it might be necessary to find a new source of supply during the drought.

Glattke said that his engineers had checked the fall of the water table and estimated its depth at more than 35 feet. Authorities of the Muskingum Conservancy district and agricultural experts in Columbus have warned of the spring drought and predicted a sharp drop in water tables.

If the shortage becomes more serious, Glattke will face the problem of either obtaining water from the city, curtailment of water use at the institution, or distribution of inmates to other state institutions not affected by the shortage.

Industrial plants in and near the city have also felt the effect of the descending water level. At the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing plant, new wells are being sunk to maintain necessary water capacity.

Indication of the lowering water level was given last month when the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company asked the city for permission to use the Longview pumping station and well because of water needed for industrial purposes. Empire wells are on the same water table as the reformatory.

seek picnicking spots through this district.

City parks and recreation centers are spruced up for their grand opening. Thundershowers early last night brought slightly cooler temperatures but failed to dampen the ardor of the holiday week-enders.

The tolling of church bells at noon, following a morning of dedicatory services in Central Park, will be the signal for the raising of flags to full mast.

The line of march for the parade to the cemetery will go east on Park avenue from Mulberry street to the square, south on Main to Chestnut street and east on Chestnut to the cemetery.

Less Than 2,500 G. A. R. Vets Remain

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Once 3,000,000 strong, the armies that fought the bloody battles from Bull Run to Appomatox have dwindled to fewer than 2,500 veterans.

Veterans administration records showed today that men who served with the Grand Army of the Republic, are dying at a rate of about three a day, and the same is generally true of the southern soldiers.

The veterans bureau reported 1,673 union soldiers and 44,428 dependents on its pension rolls on April 30. The files at Richmond, Va., once the capital of the confederacy show that 828 soldiers of the south and 16,668 widows were receiving pensions from southern states on April 1.

The federal government operates 11 homes for union veterans. The south has a single home at Atlanta but only six men who wore the gray are there. A home at Richmond was closed two months ago when the last veteran died.

President Rests At Country Home

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — (AP) — President Roosevelt found a holiday escape from world and White House problems at his country home today, after working diligently on the way up from Washington on explanatory notes for four more volumes of his public papers.

The president expected to remain here until Monday night in restful seclusion and then return to the capital.

ENTERS NAVY WITHOUT SHOES

Cowboy Couldn't Get New Boots Back On, So He Joined.

DENVER — (AP) — George W. (Shorty) Renner, 20, had reason to enlist in the navy in his stocking feet.

The six foot three inch Worland, Wyo., cowboy spent his train fare for a new pair of boots. Hitchhiking from Worland to Denver made his feet tired and he slipped off his boots. Then he couldn't get them back on.

Commander Charles M. Johnson found a disconsolate renner on the recruiting station steps. He invited him in. Shorty signed up.

JOURNEY'S END

Carol, Lupescu Arrive Today at Exile Home In Cuba.

HAVANA—(AP)—The long, hazardous journey to a peaceful home-in-exile today for former King Carol of Rumania, Madame Elena Lupescu and the faithful palace Chamberlain from Bucharest, Ernest Urdareanu, on arrival aboard the U. S. liner America.

A series of weird escapes, first from the Rumanian Iron Guard and the onrushing Nazis and later from Spain in a runaway suggesting conspiracy, lies behind them.

The ex-king's advance agents said he hoped to lead a quiet, democratic life in Cuba. For the present he will live in a newly renovated $540-a-month, five-room suite at the Hotel Nacional. The Cuban secret police has detailed two of its operatives to attend Carol night and day as long as he remains here.

RATIFY PACT

Automobile Workers Agree to Contract At Packard.

DETROIT—(AP)—The CIO United Automobile Workers last night announced ratification of a contract with the Packard Motor Car company providing for wage increases and bonuses in lieu of vacations.

The agreement, which ended a strike threat at the company, holders of $62,000,000 in armament orders for the United States and British governments, provides an 8-cent hourly increase for approximately 11,000 production employes. Basic pay scales were not disclosed.

Mr. Hill was graduated from the same college and is bookkeeper for the college mill. The couple will live at 720 Flower avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

GALION PUPILS STAGE PARTY

Annual Junior-Senior Prom Held In High School Gym Thursday.

GALION — Sophomore girls in sarongs distributing pastel colored hand-made leis to guests in the midst of a typical South Sea island setting, greeted dancers Thursday night at the annual junior-senior prom in the Senior high school gymnasium.

Guests included 235 juniors, seniors, faculty members and wives, board members and wives.

Before arriving at the gymnasium, the group was feted at a dinner at Peace Lutheran parish house. Tables were decorated with flowers and green and white colors of the senior class. Programs at the places were also in keeping with the South Sea island theme.

Toastmaster for the dinner program was Billy Richardson. Toasts were given by the junior class president, John Metheany; the senior class president, Junior Schreck; James Walters of the faculty; Harry Sanderlin, clerk of the board of education. Remarks were made by O. E. Hill, superintendent of schools, and E. R. Pickering, principal of the Senior high school.

GALION—Rev. William A. Martin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was the Memorial day speaker Friday morning at Fairview cemetery for a program arranged by Scarbrough post, the American Legion, and participated in by various patriotic organizations of the city.

Lawrence Neumann is marshal of the day and his committee consists of Clarence Gardner, Fred Barr, George Flick, Ralph Schreck, Edward Byrns, George Epley and Elmer Curfman.

A parade, starting at 9 a. m. was headed by the Galion high school band.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MAY 30, 1941.

John Bull still jogs along with the world on his back.

To a lot of fellows who haven't taken the trouble to find out what is going on in the world, realistic citizens are "war mongers."

Memorial Day, 1941

THIS is Memorial day. But it is a very special Memorial day. Across two seas other soldiers are dying for ideals while we pause to remember Americans who gave up their lives for the beliefs that have thus far kept the United States the land of the free.

Normally it is a day when our thoughts would turn backwards.

We would be thinking particularly of Civil war veterans, the last of whom in Richland county died this year. We would be thinking of Spanish-American and World war veterans who are still active among us.

And veterans of these last two American wars would be thinking of their experiences.

But these are not normal times. Our thoughts must grope into the future.

What the future holds for Americans we scarcely dare to guess. We know there are hardships in store—whether in civilian life from the gigantic national defense effort or in actual combat to ward off foreign foes.

Yet, whatever the future holds on this of all days we know this—the things that will sustain us and carry us ultimately through the times ahead are the same ideals treasured by those men for whom this day is set aside.

The ideals for which free men live and fight and die do not change.

They are honor and truth. They are the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

These are the ideals that must live again today in the hearts and minds of all of us. Into the mold of them we must pour the days and hours of the future casting the shape of things to come into the enduring bronze of what is right and good.

A Ship For a Ship

THE naval career of the great warship Bismarck was a brief but proud one. Although German jubilation was short-lived, it really had a fitting cause in the sinking of the mighty Hood in North Atlantic. But that job was accomplished on the Bismarck's first important venture into the present war, and it led directly to the sinking of the Bismarck itself.

The British have had to admit that the Germans were superior to them so far on land and in the air. The only claim they have made in this respect has been that they intended to catch up with the Nazis' head start and eventually win mastery in both areas.

Through all the land and air reverses of the present war, however, the British have relied on their hitherto undisputed sea power. That was their life line and their defense, the means by which they could keep going for the year or years necessary to create the airplanes and military equipment with which they hoped eventually to meet Germany on even terms. Germany challenged that power dangerously in the destruction of the Hood. Britain reasserted it vigorously when it pursued and sunk the Bismarck. And in such a contest, the British have more ships to spare than their enemy.

Truth In Court

PEOPLE often profess to be worried about children's "lying" when the fact is that they probably make more trouble by telling the truth. The latter virtue is usually natural with children, unless they are especially imaginative or have been driven to lying by punishment for small offenses.

In a San Francisco courtroom the other day a woman was earnestly explaining to the judge why her husband had been breaking the speed limit. He was very tired and not feeling well, she said, and in such a hurry to get to his comfortable home that he didn't notice how fast he was going.

Then suddenly the four-year-old daughter piped up proudly, "Daddy was trying to see how fast his automobile would go." So the judge had to fine the poor fellow.

Really, there should be more children brought into court as witnesses.

The current chain letter which is supposed to bring its senders an ultimate windfall in defense savings stamps is just as silly as all its predecessors. And postal authorities point out that it's against the law.

COUNT THAT NATION LOST WHICH FORGETS ITS HONORED DEAD.

Commodity Shortages Upcoming

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Remember the "gasolineless days" last war? The days when anyone driving a passenger automobile on Sunday was regarded by passersby as pretty nearly a traitor?

Those days are coming again, but this time there will be different things we will be asked to do without.

For the present, for instance, there is not the slightest indication that we will ever be told to cut down our sugar consumption. In the last war there was first a shortage, then severe rationing, with the waiter bringing you a couple of lumps in a paper sack instead of handing you the bowl. Then right after the war sugar soared to 17 cents a pound, and beyond, with little obtainable at any price.

That was why when they had what they have since called "The Dance of the Millions" in Cuba. That lovely island has never really recovered, economically, from that splurge, and the gloom of depression which followed its collapse.

But up to now there has not even been any raising of the quota bans on sugar production. Every indication is that there will be plenty of sugar regardless of developments.

The first important appeal to the public to do without something applies, curiously enough, to electricity. In a statement signed by the federal power commission, the office of production management, the war department, the Tennessee Valley authority, the Alabama Power company, the Georgia Power company, the Gulf Power company, the Mississippi Power company and the South Carolina Power company, the people of the southeast are asked to conserve electric current.

"The southeastern area," says this statement, "is a large contributor to this defense production. In addition the area has been chosen for the location of many army cantonments, air training bases, munitions plants and other defense facilities. These defense activities require a great volume of power. The continued supply of this power throughout the emergency must not be interrupted or curtailed. This year an unprecedented drought threatened that power supply throughout the southeast.

"Large additions of power supply for the region are now under top speed production by TVA and private companies. They are nearing completion but until these new sources of supply are actually delivering power and especially during the next few months it is imperative in the interest of defense that power be carefully conserved.

"Even if normal rainfall should end the drought you still will be asked not to waste power, for every kilowatt hour you can conserve at this time adds that much to your nation's capacity for defense."

Incidentally all of the steam plants in the whole region are to be worked at full capacity for 24 hours a day, seven days a week, though many of them were originally designed merely as standby protection for hydro supplied systems, and some of them are almost obsolete.

Obviously, the next step would be to bar electric signs, normally always lit at the moment of peak consumption, and to bar window displays in the early evenings.

"You cannot stop panzer divisions with electric refrigerators," one OPM official commented.

Listen World!

The Truth Lives On

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"WESTMINSTER BOMBED!" the newsboys cried.

To millions who never saw England and have no English blood that news struck cruelly hard. For, long since, Westminster ceased to be a part of London and became a symbol beloved by all the world: a place which for nearly 1,000 years has honored the greatest living . . . and the noblest dead.

And "Big Ben's" chimes, now silenced by those same bombs. Chimes that rang out for more than British ears alone, for they rang the hopes and dreams of every man who heard them, great or small. They stood for certainty in little, troubled lives . . . for great ideals in larger, more important plans.

Westminster and "Big Ben," they were the symbols of a world that may be gone, of order and security. Those bombs that smashed that mighty roof and stilled the chimes, smashed something in our lives, too. They smashed the childish faith that the "Good Old Times" could still come back. They broke our childish clutch upon the dear, dead past. They left a dreadful gap of doubt, right through our hearts . . . a dreadful fear that Might's more powerful than Right.

And yet, they shouldn't! For Westminster and Big Ben were only symbols, not deathless realities. They merely stood for something, they were not eternal in themselves. They stood for things which bombs can never touch . . . Which have gone on since the first jungle brute awoke to something greater than the lust for blood.

That's why they were so loved around the world. They stood for all that was fine and noble in each private life . . . they were the symbol of a world made safe for noble deeds and decent acts. Now they are blitzed.

But that does not mean that decency or nobility are blitzed! The symbols may be wrecked. But that for which those symbols stood cannot be bombed!

HOUSES MAY FALL . . . AND CHIMES MAY FAIL . . . BUT TRUTH GOES ON!

The love of truth and courage, the thing which built Westminster, is as alive today as it was one thousand years ago. The impulse that put the chimes within Big Ben, moves in our hearts as surely as it did that day when the great clock first chimed.

HOUSES MAY FALL . . . AND CHIMES MAY FAIL . . . BUT TRUTH GOES ON. For truth is a part of the evolving human soul. And when a man has once conceived a finer, prouder life, he will not easily turn back to a lesser one. Or, if he is forced to retreat, he will carry a seed in his heart that shall, some day, burst into freedom. No bomb was ever invented that can compete with that small, persistant seed.

Britain's symbols are falling—ours too maybe menaced in this fast-changing world. Don't fool yourself about that fact. Then what is our duty, yours and mine?

To see beyond all symbols! To pledge ourselves to principles which never can be bombed! To build realities of faith and love, of truth and wisdom and generosity, which cannot crash! To realize that America is not a political formula, but a state of mind—a dream that's rooted in each Yankee heart. A dream as tall as God!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, May 30, 1936.

2,000 people attended the Memorial Day services at the cemetery.

A. J. Gilbert, G. W. Benedict, James L. Zimmerman and Richard H. Rickets headed the Memorial day ceremonies.

John Bertka, Central avenue, was in Detroit spending the weekend.

Elsa Cox and Giles Hamilton were married.

Westbrook Country club opened summer season with dinner dance.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, May 30, 1921.

Burton Preston was elected president of the Ohio Golf association.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Killick returned from a motor trip through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Mary Laird of Mansfield and Walter Edward Lopeman of Bellevue.

John E. Pfeifer, Rowland avenue, twisted his leg and injuries confined him to his home.

Sgt. August Kurbad, 175 South Diamond street, was center of interest in the Memorial Day parade as he was the only veteran of three wars.

Let's Look Around

San Diego, 'Built Around a Park'

—By G. J. KOCHENDERFER

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—This charming southern California city, with its congenial climate and many natural attractions, may be growing too fast for its own good, as was once the experience of Akron, and several other Ohio cities.

While the natural growth of San Diego in the decade from 1930 to 1940 was about 56,000, to the 203,841 shown by last year's census, there has now been an abrupt jump to approximately 300,000, due to an influx of workers on aircraft production and other defense projects which are swirling along at terrific speed.

Consolidated Aircraft, engaged in production of big bombing planes, is spreading tremendously into new buildings, and other plants engaged in defense work are operating at capacity.

However remote the war may seem in other parts of the country, everybody here is made conscious of its nearness by the hundreds of young men in navy, army and marine corps uniforms who are seen on the streets of San Diego any evening.

The naval training station, the marine corps base, the naval air station and the army's Fort Rosecrans all reflect the intensified military preparations being made by the United States government—and added precautions being taken are also quite evident.

FACILITIES for handling recruits at the naval training station are being greatly increased and a just-completed auditorium has a seating capacity of 2,370, for use as a part of the school system or for varied evening entertainment provided for the young men in training.

First seen, upon entering the grounds, is a park-like area known as the "quarterdeck," with a lofty flagpole from which the colors are flown. The officer at the gate is "the chief of watch," or "officer of the watch," following naval parlance.

On the afternoon we visited the training station several companies of recruits were being drilled on the south parade grounds while some who were a little further advanced were engaged in signal practice on the central field.

"The first three weeks are the hardest," said the young man who was assigned by Lieut. Commander Perry Wood as our guide, and who explained that about seven weeks of training are required before a recruit is eligible for examination for transfer to a naval school or aboard ship.

Enlistments are for four years, with 18 as the minimum age for acceptance, and physical requirements are exceptionally high—accounting for the uniformly healthy appearance of the youthful recruits.

"Our navy will be the youngest of any navy in the world," our guide announced, clearly proud of his association with it.

A MOTOR TRIP through San Diego, and environs, is a revelation in natural and developed loveliness. It has been said that this is a city "built around a park," by which is meant that the 1,400 acres of Balboa park occupies a central location, making it an outstanding community feature—with special attention always directed to the 150 acres of "zoo," or more accurately, the San Diego zoological gardens, where cageless type quarters have been provided for the more dangerous wild animals, with hills and gullies lending themselves to the appearance of natural habitat for birds, animals and reptiles from many parts of the world.

A drive to Point Loma, "the Plymouth Rock of the west," and a stop at San Diego's "old town," occupies a pleasant afternoon, featured by a visit to the old home in which there is a small chapel known as "Ramona's Marriage Place." The tradition of Ramona's marriage, as told in Helen Hunt Jackson's well-known historical novel, still clings to this home and chapel, and many young people come from far away to be married before the altar at which Ramona stood. Even while we were there the organ was being tried for a wedding scheduled to take place within a few days.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Has Head Start On Germany In Production of Bombing Planes

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—When white-haired, Danish-born OPM boss Bill Knudsen issued his recent announcement of a boost in production of heavy bombing planes to 500 a month, he made what military experts believe will be one of the most strategic moves of the war.

For these giant bombers, ranging more than 5,000 miles, able to penetrate all the way from England to the Skoda munitions works in Czechoslovakia and the aviation plants of Austria, may in the end turn the tide of war.

This is a field in which the U. S. A. has a head start on Europe. The U. S. fighter planes sent to Britain so far have been none too good. But this country pioneered heavy bombers; the famous "flying fortresses" were the first of their kind in the world.

With this in mind, take a look at the changed bomber construction program just announced by Knudsen:

Old Plan—Called for 200 medium bombers monthly, plus 100 heavy bombers. Total bomber output, both medium and heavy—3,600.

New Plan—Calls for 500 heavy bombers monthly, plus 300 medium bombers monthly. Total 6,000 heavy bombers, plus 3,600 medium bombers. This means a total of nearly 10,000 bombers, and it may go even higher in a few months.

Germany's Slow Start.

Encouraging thing about the big bombing plane situation is the advance start of the United States. Only six months ago no other country in the world produced four-motor bombers.

Today, Germany is just getting into heavy production of its four-motor bomber, the Kurier, at the Focke-Wulf plant in Bremen, which is one explanation for the constant British bombing of that city. Also it explains the smashing air raids on the French seaport of Boulogne, from which several Kurier squadrons operate against British shipping.

Accurate figures on Kurier output are lacking, but best information is that it will not match the combined American-British output when both countries hit their stride early in 1942. Britain is now turning out her first four-motor bomber, the Stirling. Exact rate of production is a military secret, but it is not high. U. S. airmen consider it an excellent ship.

Meanwhile U. S. production is expanding at a rate which a few months ago was not thought possible. Airplane motors are the key to the bomber program. To this end Ford, Buick and Studebaker have taken over Wright and Pratt-Whitney patents and by early 1942 will be turning out 1,600 engines a month. This will be in addition to the accelerated production of Wright and Pratt-Whitney in their own plants.

Propeller production also is being stepped up. The Nash-Kelvinator company is rushing construction of a new plant at Lansing, Mich., to manufacture three-blade bomber propellers under license from United Aircraft.

Meanwhile Boeing and Consolidated flying fortresses are being ferried in a steady stream across the Atlantic.

Note—The Martin BX-9 twin-motor bomber, considered by the British the best of its type in the world, has reached the mass production stage and soon will be coming off the line at a rate of more than 120 a month.

Luxury Aluminum.

Within three blocks of the White House a new luxury hotel, the Washington Statler, is being erected. Associate architect is Angelo R. Clas, former assistant PWA administrator. Chief architects are Holabird and Root of Chicago, which supplied many executives for PWA. Financing is supplied by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Yet—with the airplane industry crying for aluminum, with refrigerator companies eliminating one ice-cube tray from each unit, and with housewives called upon to turn in discarded pots and pans, this new hotel is planning aluminum windows instead of steel.

Thus thousands of pounds of aluminum will be necessary for Washington's new luxury hotel, three blocks from the White House.

Wirtz Resignation.

On Jan. 10 of this year "Honest Harold" Ickes issued an official statement to the press denying a Washington Merry-Go-Round story that the under secretary of the interior, Alvin J. Wirtz, would shortly resign and would be replaced by ex-Congressman Jack Dempsey of New Mexico.

With characteristic vigor, Secretary Ickes said: "Both generally and specifically I deny every single one of these statements and every implication that any one of them may carry."

However, Alvin J. Wirtz has now resigned as under secretary of the interior and ex-congressman Jack Dempsey is being appointed in his place.

Note—When Admiral Land, chairman of the maritime commission, heard Dempsey was leaving the commission for the interior department, he hit the ceiling. New Mexico, from which Dempsey hails, cannot boast a single navigable stream but he has been an excellent maritime commissioner.

Power Shortage.

During Term I of the New Deal, critics lampooned it for building power plants all over the U. S. A. Never would the American public be able to use all this power, cried anti-New Dealers.

One of those who shared this view was Charles Wetmore Kellogg, of the Edison Electrical Institute and the Engineers Public Service company, and a spokesman for the power companies. Only three years ago, February, 1938, TVA Director David Lilienthal, speaking before the national industrial conference board, warned business of a coming shortage of power. When he sat down, Kellogg gave this public reassurance:

"We have ample power and there is absolutely nothing to worry about."

Irony of fate—today Kellogg is a dollar-a-year man sitting at a conference table trying to find enough power to fill the 800,000-kilowatt shortage and keep defense industries going. He even has to consider ways by which power saved by municipalities on Sunday can be transmitted to factories several hundred miles distant.

Merry-Go-Round.

Vice President Henry Wallace's daily morning game of tennis is a stellar attraction at his hotel. Other residents flock to the windows to watch him perform, and Wallace plays a fast, snappy game. . . . Admiral Harold Stark, white-cropped chief of naval operations, is known among intimates as "Betty," a nickname hung on him when he was a midshipman at Annapolis. . . . The name of the officer in charge of finding space to house the war department's constantly expanding agencies is Colonel Eugene Householder.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Some time ago a German seaman with a swastika burned on his arm jumped ship at Panama and made his way to the Metropolitan area. He was picked up finally at Islip, Long Island, and questioned by the police. Dissatisfied with the story he told of being a Nazi agent, the police called in Roy Post, a lie detector expert, and asked him to give the prisoner a test.

Reporters and representatives of the army, navy, and secret service witnessed the test. It took Post only a few moments to convince the man there was no use holding back. He gave in.

I mention this because I have known Post for years and because I have seen the lie detector work. To Post's credit is a long list of convictions that have saved insurance companies, commercial houses, and private individuals thousands of dollars. Some time ago Post was on the air with Elliott Roosevelt, giving a detailed explanation of his detector, and more recently one of the major film companies produced a technicolor short showing the apparatus, which looks like a portable phonograph, in operation.

Now Post has the idea of offering his services to the British government. It is his suggestion that with his machine the British government can ascertain the veracity of any statements made by their distinguished and surprising guest, Rudolf Hess, by merely confronting him with this machine. If the British would rather have one of their own men operate the machine, that will be all right with Mr. Post.

"I can train any man they designate in two or three days to operate it," he told me. As a matter of record, the machine is very simple. You plug it in as you would an ordinary radio. You strap a contact pad to a man's hands. Then he begins to talk. If he utters an untruth, a sensitive needle showing on a dial begins to jump violently up and down.

Not long ago Post was called on a case involving the disappearance of $10,000 worth of merchandise. The suspects were in custody. They denied any connection with the case. But with the lie detector confronting them they confessed all. The case was settled on the spot. It was duly written into the records and published.

Post's idea is that the British intelligence service could make excellent use of the detector in questioning any of the captive airmen that are shot down and land by parachute in England. He doesn't imply that Herr Hess himself contemplates the falsification of facts. But it certainly is a deterrent when a man is convinced that he can't get away with anything without betraying himself.

A simple maneuver is the preliminary move in any test. The suspect is asked, secretly, to write down a number between one and ten He places the number in his pocket. Then Post questions him about each number. If he has written "3" and attempts to deny it, the needle dances all over the dial. It is conclusive and self-evident, and the prisoner always sees the light.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

"See . . . Like this!!"

A Farmer's Diary

'Unlimited Emergency'

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

WHEN the newspapers said that the president's latest fireside chat would be of the gravest importance we regretted for an instant that we have no radio. My wife—the woman likes to drive—suggested that we go to see some farmer friends and listen with them, to observe the reaction of a typical farm family in a crisis. I acquiesced.

So, just before nine—the speech was at 9:30—we drove into the village. Now, at any time of day or night when stores are open, a loudspeaker set into the wall of a radio shop broadcasts news and music to every passerby. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday are open nights and business goes on until after 9 p. m. This is an accommodation to farmers who can do their trading in the cool of evening and have the daylight hours to work at home.

But this was Tuesday. Stores were closed. Lights were mostly out. Two or three business places that remained open showed signs of closing. "Never mind," I said, "we'll just drive on."

We drove eight miles but our friends were either in bed or not at home. The house was dark. A dog barked noisily. It was after nine. "The speech will be over," I said, and turned around.

We drove back through a neighboring town. There at a garage, a loudspeaker was on and the familiar voice of President Roosevelt floated out . . . "We in the Americas will decide for ourselves whether, when and where our interests are attacked, our security threatened. . . ."

Heavy traffic drowned the voice. Three men in the lighted restaurant drank their beer. Several half grown boys on bicycles swooped about the alleys shouting. Nobody but us tried to listen.

A woman came onto her porch and began with a clatter to fold up the chairs for fear of rain. She closed the door with firmness when she finished, and turned the key in the lock. The garage man carried in the oil and locked the air hose. Then he hurried in, switched off the radio, and closed the door. The president had only well started.

Along the homeward way, many farmhouses were dark. Farmers go to bed early. In two that were lighted we glimpsed a man with a newspaper and two women working at a table. Affairs of state were not on these people's minds.

From the attic windows of our cottage a light streamed out. The children were reading in bed. The lower floor was dark. We stumbled in.

"Did you hear the president?" came our daughter's voice.

"NO," I said, chagrined, "People are asleep. We'll have to read it in the papers tomorrow."

Baptist Church Wedding Held This Morning

Miss Marjorie Hoffman and Noland Meredith Exchange Vows.

CHOOSING her sister's birthday anniversary for her wedding today, Miss Marjorie Elba Hoffman became the bride of Noland Paxton Meredith this morning at 10 o'clock in a lovely open church service at the Park Avenue Baptist church. Palms and ferns decorated the altar with two beauty vases of pink peonies and white larkspur forming a colorful background for the ceremony.

Miss Hoffman was gowned in a street length ensemble of white crepe consisting of a dress fashioned along Princess lines with square neckline and full length coat, trimmed with soutache braid on the yoke and cascading in a panel to the hem of the coat. Her only jewelry was a gold cross and her gloves were of white lace. She carried a white testament with a shower of white gardenias tied with white satin ribbon. On her head was a band of tiny gardenias.

Mrs. Wilbur Cleckner of Mansfield, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and wore a street length frock of turquoise crepe with cartridge pleated neckline enhanced by gold clips. The sleeves were fashioned with lace net applique which also trimmed the apron peplum. The flared skirt was gored in front. Completing her costume were white lace gloves and a large white picture hat. She wore a corsage of Rapture roses.

Wilbur Cleckner was best man.

Preceding the service nuptial music was played by Miss Alfaretta Bowden, organist, whose selections were "Serenade" by Schubert, "Dawn" by Nevin, "Traumeri" by Schumann, "Russian Romance" by Friml, and "Venetian Love Song" by Nevin. Miss Mary Jane Bellore sang two numbers, "At Dawning" by Cadman, and "Oh Promise Me" by DeKoven.

During the ceremony Miss Bowden played "I Love You Truly" by Bond, and preceding the service the traditional Lohengrin's wedding march, and at the close the Mendelssohn wedding march.

Rev. Albert L. Linder officiated for the single ring service read in the presence of many relatives and friends. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hoffman, 110 Massa avenue, and Mr. Meredith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Meredith,

Garden Club Members Plan Flower Show for Malabar Carnival

Members of the Mansfield Garden clubs will contribute their share of work and artistic ability for the Malabar Carnival British War Relief when they arrange many types of floral exhibits for the garden party on Saturday evening, June 7, at the Louis Bromfield home. Pictured above are a group of members from the Astowela and Johnny Appleseed Garden clubs who will participate in the arranging of flowers on the terraces at the Bromfield home. Left to right, top row, are Mrs. C. A. Hines of the Astowela club; Mrs. A. L. Price of the Astowela group, and Mrs. A. W. Meihack of the Johnny Appleseed Garden club. Lower photos are Mrs. Don Black and Mrs. Henry Sanford, members of the Johnny Appleseed club, as they conferred about the floral arrangement for the party; and right photo, Mrs. Edward Loughridge, also of the Johnny Appleseed club, in the garden of her home. Thirty arrangement of formal and informal style will be displayed by the club members.

Stahl-Creamer Wedding Held At St. Peter's

Formal Service Read for Prominent Couple at 9:30 O'Clock.

REMINISCENT of spring flowers were the quaint starched gowns of marquisette worn by Miss Margaret Stahl and her attendant, Miss Mary Helen Creamer when the former exchanged nuptial vows with Robert K. Creamer today at 9:30 before the altar of St. Peter's Catholic church. Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiated for the formal open church service read in the presence of friends and relatives. Palms, ferns and spring flowers decorated the altar which was illuminated with tall candelabra.

H. Rexford Stahl gave his sister in marriage. Nuptial music was played at the organ by Raymond Baum.

His selections were "Cavatina" by Bohn, "Elegia" by Ravanello and processional, "Grand Triumphal Chorus" by Guilmant. Music for the mass was 17th century from the ancient chants of the church. The offertory number was "O Sanctissima" — traditional hymn to the Blessed Virgin and during communion, "Melody in G" by Guilmant. The wedding recessional was by Stern.

Dressed in a bridal gown of white marquisette made with a medium length train, the ensemble was fashioned peasant style, with high neckline and long full sleeves. The full skirt fell from the waist with a low effect and the only trim on the gown was the tiny bow ties at the neckband and wristbands. She wore a finger tip bridal veil which was also fashioned peasant style, held in place with a pearl beaded bonnet.

Miss Creamer's frock was in lemon lily yellow marquisette made with a tight basque, short puffed sleeves and a trim of rushing at the neckline which was off-the-shoulder style. Completing her costume was a large southern style milan straw hat with heaven blue velvet streamers which reached to the hem of her dress.

The bride's bouquet was formed of white glads and gardenias and Miss Creamer carried a bouquet of yellow roses and blue delphinium. Mrs. Linton, mother of the bride, wore a dusty pink print frock with white accessories and a gardenia corsage. Mrs. Creamer's dress was of powder blue print with navy and white accessories. She also wore a gardenia corsage. Miss Creamer, the attendant, is a sister of the bridegroom. Best man was his brother, Peter, jr. Ushers were Edward G. Meder and Irvin Whisler.

Following the service a wedding breakfast for 40 was served at the Susie Janis home, Park avenue west road. Appointments were in white with a wedding cake served to the guests.

Later today Mr. and Mrs. Creamer will leave for an esatern wedding trip and upon their return will reside temporarily at 359 West Fifth street, the home of the bride's parents. For traveling Mrs. Creamer will wear a beige frock with luggage brown jacket, hat and other accessories. Her corsage will be of gardenias

Ruth Cline and Mr. Baker United In Marriage Here

THE home of Sterling Baker, 151 Gibson avenue, was the scene of his marriage to Miss Ruth Cline of Marion last evening at 7:45 before an improvised altar in the living room. Rev. P. E. Smoke, pastor of the Calvary Evangelical church of Marion, officiated for the double ring service. Lighted tapers furnished the illumination for the ceremony which was witnessed by a few close friends and relatives. The home was attractively decorated with bouquets of spring flowers.

For her wedding Miss Cline wore a street length ensemble of pink and blue with a polk bonnet styled hat trimmed with a powder blue veil, and matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Miss Irene Chontos of Marion was maid of honor and wore a pale beige ensemble with matching accessories and a corsage of roses. H. H. Hassinger was best man for Mr. Baker.

Mr. B. C. Cline, mother of the bride, was attired in a navy sheer frock with white accesories and also wore roses.

Following the nuptials a wedding dinner was served at the Colonial Guest House for 10 guests. A large wedding cake centered the table. Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Baker left for a trip through the Middle West. For traveling Mrs. Baker wore an olive-green gabardine suit with white accessories.

The bride was graduated from Marion Harding high school and has been employed as bookkeeper and stenographer at the Faye shop in Marion. Mr. Baker, a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school, is employed at the Graphic Display Service. Mrs. Baker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Cline, 250 Hane avenue, Marion. After July 1 the young couple will reside at 151 Gibson avenue.

Guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Hassinger of Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Cline, Rev. and Mrs. Smoke, Miss Irene Chontos and G. W. Cline, all of Marion.

They say Alice Marble, who has been playing some wonderful tennis out West, never enters a match without a tiny replica of herself in platinum with a diamond racket, which forms her favorite piece of jewelry.

Miss Hershey and Mr. Kerr Tell of Wedding Service

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Miss Myrtle Hershey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hershey, La Rue, and Ernest Kerr, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kerr, 97 West Third street. The wedding was solemnized May 17 at 4 o'clock at Georgetown, Ky., at the parsonage of the Methodist church with Rev. H. C. Gibson officiating.

Following a motor trip through the southern states the couple are residing at 181 Sycamore street. For her wedding Mrs. Kerr wore a pink frock with blue accesories. She was graduated from La Rue high school, and Mr. Kerr attended Hepburn high school. He is employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Style Show and Tea Held for Pupils' Mothers

Eighth and ninth grade home economics students at John Simpson Junior high school held a style show and tea at the school Thursday afternoon for their mothers. Fifty mothers attended the affair.

Preceding the tea, fifteen girls from Miss Mary Gracy's classes presented a style show. Play clothes, afternoon clothing, sleeping attire and formal wear were modeled by the girls. Exhibits of the sewing work being done in the clothing classes was on display in the room. During the style show music was furnished by Betty Morey at the piano and Helen Mavromatis and Josephine Letizia, vocal numbers.

Hostesses for the tea, which was held after the show in the home economic rooms, were Betty Brown and Geraldine Offerle. Mary Jane Edwards and Ruby Fralick presided at the tea table which was decorated with roses and orange blossoms and red tapers Miss Helen McCleary was in charge of the tea which was presented by her class students.

Stahl-Creamer Wedding Held This Morning

which formed the center of her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Creamer, daughter of Mrs. Charles Linton, was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school, and was employed as a stenographer at the Lumbermans Mutual Insurance company. Mr. Creamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Creamer, sr., 100 Carpenter road, was graduated from Mansfield high school and is associated with his father at the Creamer hotel.

At a rehearsal party Thursday evening at the Linton home the bride and bridegroom presented their attendants with gifts.

Out-of-town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Stahl of Excelsior Springs, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. John Korn, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Stahl of Galion, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Eckstein of Bucyrus, Mrs. Elizabeth Myers and daughter, Ida, Mrs. Charles Schroeder, Carl Dill, L. J. Walker, and Mrs. Paul Walker, all of Bellville.

Cottage Garden Club Has Party

Mrs. Ernest Ihrig, Maple street, entertained members of the Cottage Garden club, Thursday afternoon at her home, assisted by Mrs. H. G. Miller. Luncheon was served at one o'clock from a table attractively decorated with purple and yellow appointments and bouquets of iris. Mrs. R. R. Alexander of Tampa, Fla., an associate member, and Mrs. S. A. Wentz poured.

Discussion was held concerning the flower arrangements to be furnished by the club for the Malabar Carnival June 7, for the British War Relief garden party at the Louis Bromfield home. Roll call was answered by "My Favorite Flower Combination" and reports given by those who attended the Garden Club of Ohio day held May 20 in Columbus.

Mrs. E. C. Frampton furnished the program speaking on "An Old Fashioned Garden," and later the group visited the Ihrig garden. The next meeting will be held June 13 at the home of Mrs. Ernest Larson, 625 Bigelow road, with Mrs. Thomas Burns as associate hostess.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"He was, five minutes ago," the owner of the Lansfield replied. "We had the operator call his number, then, when he answered, the operator apologized, saying she had made a mistake. And now there is a man patrolling the corridor outside his door. If he comes out he will not be stopped or accosted, but he will be efficiently trailed. Are these arrangements satisfactory?"

"Eminently so," I said, hugging to my soul the thought that the heavy glass doors and the thick Venetian blinds were providing a sufficient barrier against Mr. Veritzen's low but resonant voice being heard on the balcony.

For I was almost certain that the man dogging my footsteps was even now upon the balcony outside my door, although I was sorely puzzled as to how he had gotten there.

Madge Betrays Her Fear.

But the next instant I realized that in some way I had betrayed my secret fear. More than once in my life I have had occasion to remark Philip Veritzen's keen perceptions, and when I saw his eyes flash to the French doors leading to the balcony outside my suite, and then, searchingly, appraisingly, to my face, I realized that I had not been able to conceal my conviction that the man trailing me was at that moment upon my balcony.

Philip Veritzen rose abruptly from his chair, and in near panic I tensed my muscles to spring and seize his arm should he walk toward the balcony door. But he turned, instead, toward the carafe of icewater upon a little table near the window and poured himself a glass of water.

His back was toward the door, and if there was a man outside upon the balcony, I knew with thankfulness that he neither could see Mr. Veritzen's face, nor hear his voice.

Outwitting the Spy.

I also realized that my former employer was standing in such a position that my own tell-tale face could not be seen from the balcony, while Olga's face was turned toward me and away from the French windows.

"Please do not move," Philip Veritzen murmured, "and speak only in whispers. Madge, am I right in supposing that the man you fear is even now upon the balcony?"

Even in the stress of the moment I could not help the little jolt which his use of my Christian name still gives me. Only since his marriage to the exiled queen of Transvania, who insisted from the first upon the banishing of all formality between herself and me, has he addressed me in any other manner than by the formal "Mrs. Graham." And I have been equally meticulous in calling him "Mr. Veritzen." At Olga's insistance, we now use our given names in speaking to each other, but I am sure that it will take me a long time to get used to the change.

Fears For Veritzen.

The man on the balcony was armed and murderous; I was as sure of that as if I had seen him gripping weapons in his hands ready for use. Could I keep Philip Veritzen from rushing out in a valiant attempt to capture the marauder?

"Before I answer you," I whispered finally, "may I have your primise not to go out upon the balcony? More than you know depends upon our acting as if we suspected nothing."

It was his turn to hesitate now, and for seconds that seemed hours I fairly held my breath, fearing that he was planning direct combat with the man on the balcony. But when his answer came, it was a reassuring negative.

"I shall follow your cue," he said, then added emphatically, "as long as you guard your own safety."

Couple Married Today at Baptist Church Service

103½ West Fourth street. The nuptial event was solemnized on the birthday anniversary of Miss Marian Hoffman, sister of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hoffman wore a pink lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Meredith wore a navy print frock with black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with 35 in attendance. The bridegroom's mother presided at the buffet table which was centered with two large cakes, one in the form of a wedding bell and topped with a miniature bridal couple, and the other a birthday cake in honor of Miss Marian Hoffman. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out with beauty baskets of larkspur and peonies decorating the living room.

Later in the day the couple will leave for a trip to Indian lake. For traveling Mrs. Meredith will wear a tan plaid suit with pleated skirt, white silk blouse, with benedictine accessories. Her corsage will be of gardenias. Upon their return they will live temporarily with the bridegroom's parents.

Out-of-town guests included

MRS. NOLAND MEREDITH

those from Galion, Cambridge, Mt. Gilead, Cleveland, and Lexington.

Mrs. Meredith was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and the Betty Jean School of Beauty Culture. She has been employed at the DeMilo Beauty shop. Mr. Meredith graduated from the Mansfield Senior high school and is employed by the Rogers Trucking company.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, May 30.

An eventful and lively day is read from this day's planetary operations. Things should be destined to move at a lively tempo in both the business as well as the domestic, social, intellectual and emotional life, with exceptional opportunity for making decided headway in the attaining of the most cherished desires and aspirations. There should be friendly co-operation from all sources, with some happy surprise.

Those whose birthday it is should hope for a year of progress and advancement, with all things moving toward high and happy goals of achievement. This not only in business or workaday objectives but in the realm of social, domestic and romantic ambitions, and aspirations. The force of friendship from those in power may have surprising angles.

A child born on this day should be endowed with much versatility, even a measure of genius, in original, creative or inventive lines, which may rate public acclaim.

A Fifth Avenue milliner says that men shouldn't laugh at women's hats—only smile.

Have Perfect Records for Choir Attendance

Perfect attendance at choir rehearsals and church services at which they sang during their four years in high school is the record achieved by the 15 Senior boys of St. Peter's high school pictured here. The group formed an important part of the choir during their high school days and were honored for the service by membership in St. Peter's alumni choir. Shown left to right are: first row, George Stuhldreher, Elmer Berger, Fred Forwith; second row, Ralph Berger, Raymond Baum, organist; third row, James Ehalt, Sidney Foltz, Francis Wehinger, Robert Dillon; fourth row, Phillips Diebler, Carol Dillon, David Massa and William Butterfield; top row, Richard Pfeifer, James O'Leary and Richard Dalton.

Church to Be Dedicated Today

Dedication of the new Emanuel church, 331 Wayne street, shown above, will take place today at 2:30 p. m., according to Rev. W. Sossna. Guest speaker will be Rev. C. W. Loenser, of the Emanuel Pentecostal church, Cleveland. Special services will continue at the Emanuel church every evening at 7:30 p. m. through June 12, according to Rev. Sosna. The new church consists of a basement for Sunday school classes and an auditorium for regular services. The structure was built during the past five months by members of the congregation who contributed their labor to build the structure.

T. B. Plan Here Gets National Attention

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Tricks of the Trade.

SHOW business looks hard from the outside—hard and exotic and sometimes miraculous. To a matinee-going lady, the emotional gymnastics of a heroine behind the footlights belong strictly to the how-does-she-do-it school of accomplishment; to the fellow whistling a tune down the street, the curve of a songwriter's melody is mysterious and astonishing. Things about the theater and its kindred arts always look as if they're done with mirrors—but actually successes in show business are as much a matter of simple craftsmanship as building a barn or operating a lathe.

Dorothy Kilgallen

In the arts, however, the difference between a star and a stumble-bum is usually a trade trick—the difference between a pleasant 6 ft. 2 in. performer and Gary Cooper. Everybody who is really good has trade tricks, and when a youngster develops his own, instead of hi-jacking those invented by others, he's on his way to the top.

Entertainers are as full of little tricks as a performing poodle. I don't mean tricks like Al Jolson's fondness for leaning on a knee bone. The trade tricks I'm talking about are more subtle—but you can spot them if you look closely.

Cary Grant has a habit of suddenly ducking his head as if dodging a jab—to express amazement. . . . Jimmy Cagney dances on his toes to create an impression of tremendous vitality. . . . Lynn Fontanne developed a habit of making funny, gutteral noises and walking across stage with her stomach out. She did it in one play with noticeable effect, and the habit stuck. . . .

Clark Gable has a sudden sideways glance that Myrna Loy kidded him about in "Test Pilot." . . . Tallulah Bankhead's low, insulting stage laugh, her deep, heavy voice, and her way of tossing her head like a lioness are all tricks of her trade.

Ethel Merman makes her eyes big and round and innocent when she's singing a particularly naughty lyric, and lifts her hands palms upward and shrugs, as if to ask, "What am I saying?" and her little-girl look makes the punch lines funnier. . . .

Mickey Rooney does everything but fire off a cannon to attract attention on the screen, but double-takes, tie-pulling and hair-rumpling are his favirite forms of mugging. . . .

Ethel Barrymore waves her expressive hands like a harpist and has a mannerism of staring out of the corners of her eyes, like a tigress. . . . Jimmy Stewart can steal more scenes with his Adam's apple than most actors can by waving a flag.

Women, of course, use the old sex appeal most effectively as a trick of the trade in entertainment. Marlene Dietrich makes with her legs, which isn't so much a trick as an act of God.

Simone Simon's pout makes male audiences want to send her bracelets so she'll smile. . . . You can always bet that Irene Dunne will play an emotional scene with her teeth clenched, and that makes her different from the other gals on the screen. . . .

Bette Davis, of course, has a million tricks—but did you ever notice the way she swings her hips when she walks?

The night club entertainers have their little oddities, too. . . . Harry Richman's voice, when he introduces a naughty number, always sounds as if it's sliding down a bannister. . . . Hildegarde recaptures the attention of an occasionally restless customer by directing her song right at him. When she sings, "Darling, Je Vous Aime Beaucoup" just for a ringsider—brother, he listens. . . .

Jean Sablon, the French crooner, closes his eyes langorously during a long-held note, like a girl being kissed. . . . Peggy Fears walks out to a microphone as if she were balancing an invisible book on her head. . . .

John Buckmaster adopts an entre-nous tone that suggests only the really initiate will appreciate the chic humor of his sketches.

Radio comedians have whole trunks full of trade tricks. Bob Hope started the practice of "warming up" studio audiences with some fun-making before broadcast time. Once the audience has started laughing, it's easier to make them keep laughing. . . .

Fred Allen devised the gag—called the "vision" gag because it's solely for the studio crowd—of topping a straight-man's joke by walking around the mike and peering into his script. The effect is: "Did you really have that funny line down there?" . . .

A switch on this, started by Jack Benny and worked to death by everyone else, is the trick of covering a bad gag by pointing apologetically to the script: "I can't help it—that's what it says here" is the implication.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — There's no pleasing actors. You have the perennial juveniles with their toupees, sighing in secret about their lost youth. And then you have Robert Stack.

Bob is 22. He started in the movies as a juvenile, playing with the kids—kids like Deanna Durbin, who is now married. He's scared now, after four pictures, because he figures maybe they won't let him grow up.

"You're as old as you act," says Bob, the town's most eligible young bachelor, casting an eye around at Robert Preston, William Holden, Robert Taylor, Robert Cummings and others ("not much older than I am," he says) who get to make love to Irene Dunne, Jean Arahur, Dorothy Lamour, or Myrna Loy. "I've been around older people all my life and I'd hate to think I had to play down in age all the time. I thin ka man's as old as he acts."

Bob is a Los Angeles boy, offspring of one of the first three American families to settle in the original pueblo, and awfully social. Stacks of money, but how big a stack isn't on the records.

Bob says it's "not so much" and he hopes people won't get wrong ideas about a rich boy trying to make good in the movies. He likes to tell how his dad, now dead, rose from office boy to boss in the "golden era" of business—and especially how his dad dropped piles of dough in the 1929 crash.

His mother, Betzi Stack, youthful and his frequent companion at parties and such, took him to Paris when he was five. She divorced his father, later remarried him. Bob went to foreign schools, learned French and Italian, and forgot English until he came back, aged 11 years. Even then he wanted to be an actor. School dramatics, and more of the same at college, fostered the idea. But he didn't work at it. He worked at polo. He was a three-goal player, and his University of Southern California team won a Pacific Coast intercollegiate title.

Chatter Corner

(Just jottings about people you know, as they're seen here and there about town.)

Mrs. Glenn Miller going to a lot of trouble to identify herself so she could get a check for her husband at an industrial plant in the city and finding it was worth only a few cents. . . . Lawyer Robert Green from Shelby going into the courthouse with his coat over his arm and complaining about the heat.

Harry Rist, Bob Hayes and Bob Gresmer, all of Westinghouse, reminiscing over a last year's fishing trip to Canada. . . . Paul Snyder getting ready for his debut as Liberty park manager. . . . Carl W. Wolter, assistant secretary of the Cleveland Association of Credit men attending a local meeting. . . . Councilman Fred Miller suffering from an early summer cold.

Joe Basco, Barberton fight manager, alarmed after Paul Carbetta's knockout victory over Russ Brown of Akron—" I thought I was going to take a dead one home with me," declared Joe Brown, hit by a left hook, was out as he went through the ropes and banged his head on the side of the ring at last night's fight show at the armory.

* * *

George Sattler, former News-Journal staff member, commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Marines yesterday, expected home today on a 10-day furlough. . . . Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leonard reading detective story magazines. . . . Gladys Kerr leaving for a holiday week-end trip to Detroit.

OBSERVE DAY

American Women Place Wreathes In Honkong Cemeteries.

REPORT ONLY 28 WAR AID SHIPS HAVE BEEN SUNK

Washington Hears Loss Ratio of Craft Carrying U. S. Goods Fairly Small.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Apparently authentic reports reached congress today, that only 28 ships loaded with war supplies in United States ports have been sunk en route to Britain since the European conflict began in September, 1939.

While no tabulation was available on the total number of such vessels to clear U. S. ports, interested legislators said it was safe to assume that the loss ratio of American goods thus far had been relatively small.

Sinkings listed were said to have involved some food products from South America which were transshipped at ports here. It was pointed out, however, that the sinkings do not include sea losses of equipment produced in the United States and sent to Canada for shipment from Dominion ports.

The figure of 28 sinkings in the 21 months the conflict has been under way, some legislators said, tended to bear out the report Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission gave the senate commerce committee recently.

Land revealed that out of 205 vessels which cleared from United States ports for the United Kingdom between December 30, 1940, and last March 31, only eight were sunk

Land emphasized that his figures were based on unofficial reports and hence might not be complete. He said, too, that they were no index of over-all British losses which he estimated might run as high as 5,000,000 tons annually.

Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) and other administration critics hailed Land's statement as demonstrating that the time had not yet arrived when the United States navy should be employed to safeguard the voyages of vessels carrying war cargoes

The president told his press conference Wednesday that convoys, in that World war sense, were outmoded. He added, however, that the effectiveness of the navy's Atlantic patrol in spotting submarines and raiders was increasing every day.

The president, meanwhile, had before him legislation finally approved by congress yesterday permitting the government to requisition, purchase or charter 81 foreign ships lying idle in American harbors

Although the state department indicated that two German and 26 Italian ships involved would be used on American trade routes, the measure carried no legal restriction against their being turned over to Great Britain to replace some of the British merchant tonnage losses.

WIDOW DIES

Mrs. Lollie Cook Bunker Was Native of Mansfield.

Mrs. Lollie Cook Bunker, widow of the late Charles H. Bunker, died yesterday afternoon at her home at the Blymyer Inn after a lingering illness.

She was born in Mansfield, the daughter of James H. and Mary Ann Wiler Cook, and resided here all her life.

Survivors are a brother, James M. Cook of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Claude Sturges of Ann Arbor, Mich.,. and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 4 p. m., at the Finefrock funeral home with Rev. Peter Young, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE IN CASE

Second Trial Required In Case Against Retired Judge.

PHILADELPHIA — (AP)—Inability of a jury to agree on a verdict will necessitate a second trial of retired U. S. Circuit Judge J. Warren Davis and former Bankruptcy Referee Morgan S. Kaufman on criminal charges.

Nearly seven hours of deliberation by 11 men and a woman ended in a deadlock last night after a 10-day trial in which the government charged "justice was sold" in Davis decisions before his retirement on bankruptcy cases involving one-time movie magnate William Fox.

Discharge of the jury brought an immediate plea from Prosecutor Walter H. Gahagan, jr., for another trial.

PLANS TO FORM FIRST AID UNITS

Red Cross Prepares to Contact Industry, Offices On New Emergency Program.

Aid in organizing Red Cross volunteer first aid detachments in local industries, stores and offices as a national emergency measure will be given to Richland county chapter of the Red Cross next week by George Costello, national field representative of the Red Cross.

Costello will arrive in Mansfield Monday and will remain throughout the week to work with Bernard C. Hardy, first aid and safety director for the Richland chapter, in setting up these detachments.

Hardy has already established contacts with several local industries where he explained that the purpose of such detachments "is to make available and effective in emergencies the services of persons trained in first aid and supplementary emergency procedures."

Nation-wide efforts are being made to organize detachments in every locality served by a Red Cross chapter so that disasters brought on by fires, explosions or other destructive forces can be relieved by trained first aid volunteers.

Hardy recently explained the set-up at a meeting of Mansfield first aid instructors and board members of Richland chapter.

STUDY PROGRAM FOR WESTBROOK

Committee Members Set Up Plans For Tentative Schedule.

Meeting last night to discuss what should be done to take the place of scheduled entertainment at Westbrook Country club as a result of the fire which destroyed the clubhouse, the club's entertainment committee set up tentative plans.

The dances scheduled for tomorrow night and for June 13 were cancelled, according to Tom Mowry, chairman of the committee, but plans were discussed and tentative arrangements were made for a summer entertainment program to replace the one set up prior to the fire.

Mowry said club members would be notified within the next two weeks of the committee's plans for summer entertainment. Details will be worked out shortly, he said.

STARTS TRIPS

Canadian Steamer Begins Daily Service on Lake Erie.

SANDUSKY —(AP)— The Canadian steamer Pelee starts a new daily round trip service today from here to the Canadian shore, the only one of its kind on Lake Erie.

The Pelee, a 137-foot steamer built in 1914 and rebuilt last winter in Toronto shipyards, will travel from here to Pelee island then to Leamington, Ontario and return to Sandusky. Passengers will have three hours in Leamington after the boat docks before making the return trip.

KILLED IN TRUCK

CANTON —(AP)— Merle Epley, 13, of nearby Hartville, was killed last night in a ditched truck.

SIMPSON HIGH G. A. A. ELECTS OFFICERS, 41 GIVEN AWARDS

Betty Ann Miller was elected president of the Girls' Athletic association at John Simpson Junior high school, it was announced yesterday. She will succeed Virginia Marion.

Other officers elected were Betty Morey, vice president; Marjorie Baker, secretary; and Jean Baker, treasurer.

A total of 41 members of the G. A. A. won medals, emblems, numerals and letters for points obtained in the intramural program sponsored by the association during the past year.

Ruth Damron was elected president of the emblem association within the G. A. A. Emblems are obtained by scoring 1,000 points in the program. Other officers announced were Lorraine Hunt, vice president, and Jean Baker, secretary.

Medal awards for high point girls, 1,200 or more, went to Kathryn Ann Fensch, Virginia Webber, Ann Zivkoff, Jean Bucher, Marilyn Matson, Lois Urich, Betty Eichler, and Mary Jane Edwards.

Emblems for 1,000 or more points, went to Shirley Anson, Dorothy Henry, Hannah Majors, Mary Nash, Marjorie Christ, Ruth Sheriff, Dorothy Wells, and Jean Wents.

Numerals for 500 or more points were awarded to the following pupils, Maxine Brickley, Jean Bright, Mary Jane Brust, Norma Cotton, Frances Gross, Illene Hoffman, Mary Jane Hurst, Ruth Karbula, Helen Kolikohn, Helen Malthaner, Mary Meyers, Betty Morey, Carole Nickolous, Jean Platt, Pauline Russell, Marie Laycone, and Marilyn Skeese.

Others were Betty Bowman, Ruth Anne Fos, Eileen Schuler, Meredith Fish, Jean Bechtel, Anne Wheatley, Betty Sackman, and Ellen Parrott.

DEADLINE SET

Prospective Wheat Growers Have One Day to File.

Prospective wheat growers in Richland county who have not harvested wheat in the past three years but plan to grow a crop in 1942 under the federal AAA program should file a request for an allotment by tomorrow with the county AAA committee, Guy Taylor, chairman of the committee, said today.

No 1942 acreage allotment will be set up for farms on which no wheat was grown for the past three years unless a request is filed with the county committee for an allotment.

The allotment figures designate the amount of wheat farmers can plant to qualify for payments under the federal farm program.

WORKER HURT

Employe Suffers Head Injury In Mishap at Plant.

Fred Derror, 282 Abbeyfeale road, who was struck on the head by a machine lever as he worked in the engineering department of Farm Tools Inc., was reported by Mansfield hospital authorities as in "good condition" today.

He suffered a slight fracture of the skull an attending physician said.

HUNT THIEF

Police Look for Bandit Who Passed Up $1,000.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—The long arm of the law is looking for a short-armed thief.

Police reported the thief broke into a grocery store at night, cut a hole in the top of a safe and lifted out $165; but missed $1,000 more lying just out of reach.

Laff-a-Day

"Queer, how fish are attracted to worms."

When it comes to dealing pinochle hands O. F. "Pop" Garver, assistant superintendent at the Ohio State reformatory takes top honors—at least that's what his friends claim. Playing with Fred Bushnell, Louis Sowash and Al Wentz, at Masonic hall the other night, Garver dealt both Wentz and Sowash, who were partners, a "family" in spades. Needless to say, Garver and Bushnell were on the short end of the scoring after that.

A heavy fog which rolled in over the city late last night caused Mansfield police a lot of extra work. Many residents believing the reflection of downtown lights brightening the fog was caused by a big fire, made repeated calls to police in an effort to find the cause of the "fire." Downtown buildings were shrouded in fog shortly before 11 p. m.

At least a few Mansfielders were not wholly sorry that the Westbrook Country club was destroyed by fire Wednesday. Kiwanians, who had planned a "Character Analysis" program for a Ladies' Night meeting at the club, were relieved that the wives didn't hear the "truth" as scheduled. The program was held by the Kiwanians at their regular meeting Thursday noon—but no wives were present.

* * *

Habit is a strong thing and many Mansfield motorists have reason to be glad that Patrolman Howard Schuck broke one today, that of tagging autos for parking meter violations. Schuck started out this morning on regular duty, unmindful of the holiday, and was busily tagging cars right and left before fellow officers reminded him of the fact that the meters are not in operation on Sundays and holidays.

EXAMS PLANNED

Civil Service Tests to Be Held For State Posts.

Several Mansfield residents are expected to take civil service examinations for posts with two state departments to be held June 20, 21 and 22 in Cleveland, Canton, Columbus and four other Ohio cities.

Gertrude Jones, chairman of the Ohio Civil Service commission, announced today that both the state bureau of unemployment compensation and the department of public welfare will soon be completely staffed with persons qualified by civil service tests.

Appointment will be made from eligible lists established by examinations for positions as interviewer, Grades 2 and 3; clerk, grades 1, 2 and 3; stenographer, Grades 1, 2 and 3; and typist. Grades 1 and 2.

Examinations will be conducted for existing positions in both the central and divisional offices of the Bureau of Unemployment compensation, the division of aid for the aged, division of public assistance, aid of dependent children and aid to the blind. Application blanks, which may be obtained at the Mansfield office of the BUC or department of welfare offices, must be filed in the Columbus office of the civil service commission not later than 6 p. m. Wednesday.

JOIN NAVY AT OFFICE IN CITY

Mansfield Youth, Two From Mt. Vernon Enroll.

A Mansfielder and two youths from neighboring communities enlisted in the U. S. navy, W. G. Cox, chief petty officer in charge of the local recruiting station, said yesterday.

The men are Clendon W. Parr of Mansfield, William C. Ott of Mt. Vernon and Russell B. Cly of Danville.

They will go to Great Lakes, Ill., where they will undergo military training, following which they will be assigned to some unit of the fleet, unless chosen for further training in some one of the navy trade schools.

O. B. DIVIDEND

Ohio Brass Directors Declare 50 Cents on Common.

Meeting here yesterday afternoon, directors of the Ohio Brass company voted a dividend of 50 cents a share on common stock. The dividend will be paid on June 24 to stockholders of record June 7.

It is the second 50-cent dividend paid by the company this year and covers the second quarter of the year. A similar dividend was paid for the first quarter.

FATHER DROWNS

CHILLICOTHE—(AP)—Stepping into a hole in Paint creek, Thurman Woods, 45, father of eight children, drowned yesterday.

U. S. MEDICOS WILL HEAR OF PROGRAM HERE

15,000 Physicians at Annual Convention In Cleveland to Be Told of Work.

Richland county's tuberculosis case-finding program will be presented to approximately 15,000 physicians attending the annual convention of the American Medical association in Cleveland next week as a model for use throughout the country. The convention opens Monday and closes Thursday.

Dr. Theodore L. Bliss, director of the county's case-finding clinic, will outline the county's success in a paper entitled "A Practical and Successful Tuberculosis Case-Finding Program for Non-Metropolitan Areas."

Bliss will also recommend the plan for use in other non-metropolitan areas through the United States. Although many Ohio counties have established some sort of tuberculosis programs, Bliss will point out that Richland was one of the very few to develop the fight against the disease from a case-finding approach.

The county director will describe to the convention the cooperative effort by the health department, the Richland County Tuberculosis association and private physicians in the county which is a part of the plan.

Case-finding as a definite program was set up here in 1936 after Dr. M. C. Hanson, former city-county health commissioner, established a case-finding clinic.

The plan blossomed and in 1938 a half-mill tax levy was voted to supply funds for the cases found in the clinic. Dr. Bliss set up the standards for the clinic and for the expanded program through the use of the additional funds from the levy.

Cases are referred to the clinic through private physicians and the health commissioner. Reports are made back to physicians rather than to the patients thereby maintaining the patient-physician arrangement.

The Ohio State Medical association will hold its convention jointly with the national group. Dr. Robert Plunkett, director of the tuberculosis program in New York state, will discuss Dr. Bliss's paper before the convention.

Seminary Rector To Give Address At Graduation

Rev. J. Janssen, rector of the Sacred Heart Seminary at Shelby Settlement, will deliver the address at commencement ceremonies to be held in St. Peter's church, Thursday night, June 12, when 58 seniors of St. Peter's High school receive diplomas

The class, largest in the history of St. Peter's school, will enter upon pre-commencement activities Sunday when the blessing of class rings and pins will be administered by Msgr. R. C. Goebel in the church at 3 p. m.

Classmen will receive their rings, symbolic of their union with the church, from Msgr. Goebel in a solemn service at the altar.

Msgr. Goebel will address the class and the service will conclude with Solemn Benediction.

Students, beginning with the sixth grade, will sing the Compline, evening prayer of the church and will participate in the music.

Events of the senior calendar also include a Class night program in the church, Tuesday, June 10, and a banquet breakfast June 12, following Communion services at an early Mass.

SALE OF FIVE COWS RECORDED

Sale of five registered Guernsey cows by Richland county dairymen was reported yesterday by the American Guernsey Cattle club.

Neil S. Robinson, Mansfield, sold one of the cows to Lowell D. Overmyer, Payne, O. Another was sold by Roger A. Black to Stanley Moore, Garrettsville, O.

H. K. Lehnhart of Lexington purchased a registered Guernsey from Alton Wertz of Ashland, while another was purchased by W. L. Humphrey and sons, Mansfield, from S. Glen Vinson, Mansfield. Vinson sold a second Guernsey to Paul Haynes of Granville.

P. G. Ross, widely known Mansfield breeder of Polled Shorthorn cattle, sold half interest in his herd bull, Maxwalton A-1, to J. H. Williams, Bryant, Ind., giving full ownership of the bull to Williams and Otto Holle, Decatur, Ind., who previously purchased the other half interest. The bull is 10 years old.

DROWNS IN QUARRY

FINDLAY —(AP)— Attempting to retrieve a fishing pole from a stone quarry, 7-year-old David Lee was drowned.

CHAPTER II

She was going away from the only world she knew; the air was full of farewells and heartaches, and strange excited happiness of anticipation. Cherry indeed had vague babyhood memories of a plaster cottage and a patio; she had indeed gone to the lake with a group of nuns and girls every summer; she had even penetrated the city's downtown streets to try her inexperienced hand at kindergarten teaching. But these had been merely prologue and variations upon the main fact of her life; that she was one of the charges of Saint Dorothea's, that her story and the stories of her companions were not like those of other girls, that there were not homes ready to receive them, families ready to welcome them, that there was a certain stigma in the unkown world outside the convent walls ready to attach itself to anyone who was identified as a Saint Dorothea girl. And now she was going away!

But being young, and never having known more fortunate girls with whom to compare her lot, Cherry had followed the example of the rest, had worried not at all about the future, and had satisfied herself with the carefully planned regime of the convent.

It had once been a sufficiently stark and comfortless regime. But times were changed now. Mother Superior was noted for her modernity of her views. Her girls, she said, must presently face the world as it was—with all its hurry of planes and cars, its noise and progress. Old fashioned hemming and the practice of scales must give way to arts more immediately useful; Saint Dorothea's girls with languages and music must study secretarial work, domestic science—yes and beauty parlor methods too, and voice training for radio. And if they wanted to try their hands at movie scenarios or compete for national advertising prizes, let them go ahead!

"Old girls" were twenty, found employment under "responsible custody" in the unknown world, and disappeared; new girls came in, small and frightened and homesick even from the most unfit and wretched of homes, or rebellious and angry and full of muttered threats of escape.

And gradually the convent routine, the business and reasonableness of convent days cheered the desolate and tamed the insubordinate, and they were only girls together—girls who were allowed to curl their hair and even to use a little powder, but strictly forbidden lipstick and rouge, forbidden cigarets, entirely ignorant of cocktails; girls who never had danced or flirted even upon the most innocent terms, who know nothing of house parties, night clubs, the crowded bleachers at the big ball games, the packed grandstands at the races, the thrill of speeding cars; girls whose reading was carefully watched, who never saw a newspaper, whose attendance upon the radio was carefully checked.

And yet they did know something of all these forbidden and outlawed things, these orderly young creatures in these black pleated uniforms, embellished by the prim organdy collars and cuffs that they laundered themselves in the inconvenient, outdated old laundry. When they could, they murmured of Broadway's newest songs and Harlem's newest dance steps, of Hollywood's love affairs and the marriages of heiresses, of Reno and the Riviera and Palm Beach. While they studied French verbs and wrote essays entitled "My Ambition," they knew well that mankind, and especially man, was their real study, and that marriage was their real and only ambition. Every girl at Saint Dorothea's of the age of fourteen or older knew just where she intended to spend her honeymoon, and several of them were quite definite on the subject of tallness, broadness, profession, temperament in a prospective husband.

So that Cherry, formally discharged from the books as "Charlotte Rawlings," with due details of her admission and her thirteen years' residence at the convent entered upon a formidable looking graph, was not as entirely unprepared for entrance into the world as her custodians might have fancied her to be.

At leaving, Cherry wore the convent uniform of black serge and white collar, and a round hat like a small black basket turned upside down. The hat dated back some ten years, but it was a hat, and that was all that girls from Saint Dorothea's expected of headgear. Her coat was a stout black-dyed garment that had come to the convent with a truckful of other clothes when Mrs. Peter Walsh had been suddenly widowed.

Black cotton gloves, black lisle stockings, black laced shoes, a black purse with her handkerchief and ten dollars in it, and a creased black patent-leather suitcase stuffed to bursting, and worn gray at the cracks and the corners, completed her outfit. But Cherry's youth and eagerness did something even for this dingy equipment, and her waved silky hair, which had so bewildering a variety of shades of gold and tan and brown in it, framed a radiant face.

Mother Superior had given her the ten dollars with a parting word of instruction. This money was for any emergency; her tickets and meals on the train would be paid for by the Sisters in whose care she was traveling.

"Meals on the train!" Cherry had thought, unable to hear the gentle little farewell homily for several minutes because of the sheer excitement the mere thought gave her. "Meals on the train!"

"Sister Fabian is always sick when she travels, and Sister Gervase is going down for medical treatment," Mother Superior had said; "but our good friend Doctor O'Connor will be on the train and he will take care of you in the dining car. Now, Cherry . . ."

Much had followed about character, and resort to prayer. Cherry must face any humiliations or disappointments in her new life bravely; life was a long test of the human soul. We did not know why; we saw now as through a glass darkly; it must be enough for us to take whatever was sent resignedly . . .

To all this Cherry, in outward aspect all respectful interest, had paid but a vague attention. But presently her wandering thoughts had been suddenly attracted to a more personal note in Mother Superior's remarks.

"This wouldn't have been my choice of a school for you, Cherry," the nun had said. "I've been considering in my own mind whether I ought to say this much to you," she added, "and I've asked for guidance in the matter. But there seems to be no harm in telling you that I felt—and dear Mother Bertrand felt, thirteen years ago—that you should have been one of the Victor street girls. Our school here is for cases that are underprivileged—for girls who are definitely unfortunate, perhaps through no fault of their own. However, the servant—your mother's servant, who brought you here—was very definite that it had been her wish to put you with us. Mrs. Haskell—Emma — you remember her? you will see her now—had known a fine woman who became one of Saint Dorothea's Sisters, and through her she knew exactly the character of our work."

THEATERS

Action In Tokyo.

Hollywood demolished a set in two minutes that had taken three weeks to build in the Tokyo earthquake scene in "Penny Serenade," the Gary Grant-Irene Dunne romance showing at the Ohio. Thirteen camera crews caught the action as the rumbling started. From Tokyo the locale shifts back to the United States where a foreign newspaper correspondent, played by Grant, attempts to give up adventure and drinking and settle down. The time element is established by musical themes popular some years back. Dr. Edgar Buchanan, a California dentist, gets his second big role in the production.

Aim at Defense.

Unscrupulous lobbyists determined to learn America's national defense secrets in order to "make a killing" in Wall Street turn "Adventure In Washington," showing at the Madison into a tense dramatic production. A scandal in congress, the efforts to pry secrets out of a U. S. senator, and the gattling-gun reports of a girl radio commentator are among the features of the production. Herbert Marshall, Virginia Bruce and Ralph Morgan head the cast. Freddie Bartholomew is featured in "Naval Academy," the second picture.

Cinematic Tricks.

Cinematic tricks produced in "The Invisible Woman," showing at the Ritz are the work of John Fulton, young technical wizard, whose photographic effects in the "Invisible Man" series amazed audiences. Starring John Barrymore and Virginia Bruce the production presents Miss Bruce as a discouraged dress model who offers herself as the subject for human invisibility experiments by an eccentric scientist. Barrymore plays the scientists Tom Tyler in "The Lost Ranch," is the second attraction.

Comedy Predominates.

Edgar Kennedy has another comedy role of the "slow burn" variety in "Margie," comedy with music showing at the Park as exasperated piano-mover Kennedy is aided in injecting hilarity into the show by Allen Jenkins, Eddie Quillan and Wally Vernon. Tom Brown and Nan Grey have the romantic leads as an ambitious couple aided by Mischa Auer, a moon-struck banana tycoon. Parachute troops break up a revolt in Africa in "Drums of the Desert," the second film with Ralph Byrd.

Sabotage Drama.

Based on the headlines of munitions plant explosions and their conjectured sabotage plots, "Mr. Dynamite," playing at the Majestic presents a world series pitching ace, portrayed by Lloyd Nolan, as the dramatic protagonist for the first time. Set in novel locale, a Near-East carnival in one of New York's foreign quarters, the picture deals with espionage agents attempting to halt saboteurs preying on U. S. munitions plants. Irene Hervey and Robert Armstrong are featured with Nolan. "Robbers of the Range," action drama with Tim Holt is the co-attraction.

Race Drivers Battle for Holiday Purse at Fairground

Sport Podge by REX HESS

Today is a holiday.

It started out, years ago, as a very serious event, and for many people in many places it's still a serious event, this honoring of the nation's soldier dead.

But for many, many, many people it's a day off work, a day of recreation, a holiday.

And for me? It shouldn't be called a holiday. That derives from holy day, and I'll probably be doing a bit of cussin' between naps before the day is over.

Up at 5:30 hitting for an early deadline for a holiday morning edition, then to the Fairground all day for the whizzy-dizzy whirl of the auto races, then at night to the Joe Louis-Buddy Baer fight pictures at the Madison, and THEN—I hope—home and to bed.

And if anyone says: "If you couldn't tooken it why did you take it?" I will wither him with a look, if I can get my eyes open.

Right in here should be a rhyme,
But it just ain't the place and time.

Yes sir, if I go to sleep out there in the judges' stand today, and an argument comes up about the finish of a race, just blame it on the other judges. I'll be there, but not entirely in person.

But the other judges, I understand, are professionals at the game and shouldn't make any errors. And if they did, I wouldn't open a peeper or make a peep.

There's another sporting event of today I forgot to mention. That's the fight to the finish at high noon in the public square band stand for the plushweight championship of Mansfield between Johnny Newton and Pete Miller.

It seems some high guy with crutches on, put this one on not many nights ago when he saw Newton out after midnight. "A fine way to train for that championship fight with Pete Miller," he told the idle bystanders.

And that's the first that Johnny or Pete knew about the bout.

I saw Paul Carbetta driving that florist truck around the other day. "Road work?" I asked him. "Sure," says he, "twenty miles a day—without a puncture."

One Mansfield group observing the holiday in holiday mood is that bunch of 55 Liederkranz singers who'll warble tonight and tomorrow night in Manhattan.

I am wishing them well on their Saengerfest hegira yesterday over a bowl of goulash, and telling them, very seriously: "When you're in the mood, sing a sour note for me."

For me it would have to be a sour note—just to keep the record straight. That's the way I sing.

Knockout Festival Marks Boxing Show

Judges Take Vacation as Kayo Wallops Fill Air at Mitt Show

By BOB HUFFMAN

Professional boxing made its return to the Mansfield ring last night in a flurry of knockout blows. Not once during the evening's program were the judges called upon to make a decision. Every bout ended in a knockout.

A good solid left to the midrift did for Frankie Williams, Akron university star, in the main bout as Dick "Honeyboy" Jones essayed a ring comeback after a lay-off of six months.

The climax to the crowd-pleasing show came in the fifth round when Honey Boy had Williams on the floor from a solid left hook to the body.

The count was going on when Williams' seconds threw in the towel.

Jones returned to his corner, as did Williams. Seconds from both sides clambered into the ring. But John Eichinger, referee, had another opinion regarding the matter.

He ordered the fight to continue, over the vociferous protests of seconds in both corners. The count had progressed to seven when the towel incident occurred, and an interval of possibly 30 seconds elapsed before hostilities were resumed.

A cut on the eyelid and below the eye, which Williams suffered in the fourth complicated matters by spraying blood over the ringsiders during the fifth and sixth rounds as Jones pasted Williams about the ring.

Williams was an easy but unsinkable target and it wasn't until the late sixth that Jones connected. Meanwhile spectators were of the opinion that the slaughter should be halted.

Examination after the fight disclosed that the cuts were not serious, however.

Meanwhile it was a great night for Beauford Glover, of Mansfield, who put the kibosh on Tiger Jackson of Barberton, in 2:48 of the fourth in a scheduled six rounder, and Paul Carbetta won his pro debut on a T-K. O. in 1:15 of the first over Russ Brown of Akron.

Welterweight Glover got off to a slow start as the Tiger slipped the old one-two home continuously but ineffectively during the first three rounds.

Glover gradually put on the steam to catch up with the Tiger in the fourth. Following a series of rights and lefts that sent Jackson's mouthpiece flying, the Glover wrote finish to the battle with a crashing right that left no doubt as to his ability to dish it out.

Carbetta and Brown barely exchanged greetings when Pole-em Paully smashed a left hook onto bantam Brown's jaw that carried the Akron boy through the ropes and onto the ring apron.

Brown's head rattled on the floor as he fell through the ropes and the ring apron finished the job that Carbetta had convincingly started.

Brown was out as he crashed through the ropes. The commission doctor later suggested that he be taken to a hospital for x-ray examination to determine whether he had suffered a concussion.

In a crowd pleaser from the opening gong, Jay Hellman, 135, of Ashland, and Jackie Martin, 135, of Akron, belted one another until 1:02½ of the fourth when Martin who wouldn't give up the ghost was bowed out on a T. K. O.

Martin was on the floor for a nine count, a seven and nine count, and was on the floor and saved by the bell in the third. Another nine count preceded the end in the fourth when referee Eichinger stopped the struggle in the last round of the fourth round bout.

It took Jackie Young, 135, of Akron, one round to get the range on Kid Mondue, 135, of Marion. From there on in until 1:42 of the fourth it was Young all the way. Mondue went out without a count as referee Eichinger decided enough was enough.

John L. Frazier, 167, of Mansfield, made short work of Paul Chief Parker, 180, of Ashland, in 1:36 of the first in a scheduled four-rounder.

Parker, having felt the wind of a Frazier froster, crashed to the canvas following a sharp left on the noggin. Parker bashed the boards with an enthusiastic embrace that left no doubt as to where his sentiments were at the moment. Eichinger counted him out.

The crowd was large enough to encourage the promoters to continue with a program that will probably wind up with an outdoor shot for Mansfield's leading fisticuffers, Jones and Glover.

Thrills Certain In Today's Speed Test

Entries Listed for First of Three Race Meets Booked This Summer

Professional auto racing opens a three-meet season in Mansfield today with the big Memorial day dirt-track speed classic at the Fairground attracting an entry list of 23 of the mid-west's outstanding drivers.

There'll be an auto race today too at the Indianapolis Speedway and at half a dozen of the dirt ovals of the country, and the Indianapolis race will have it on the Mansfield event in length, purse, time, and fame of the drivers.

But the Mansfield race can very well develop the thrills, chills and possibly spills that are the real attraction of the Indianapolis grind.

The half-mile dirt track at the Fairground presents much more danger to the drivers than the two and a half mile banked oval at Indianapolis, and with the Mansfield drivers hitting an average clip of about 93 miles an hour, with the speed going around 100 on the straightaway and anywhere from 85 to 91 on the turns, you just know there's going to be danger.

When those babies come hurtling down to the turns and the drivers take their foot off the gas long enough to send the cars into a swinging skid, and then step that thing down to the floor again to gain traction for the spurt down the stretch, that should be thrill enough without spills. But the chance of spills is always there, and since the element of danger is always a great crowd puller, the crowd will be there to see those spills if and when they happen.

Among the drivers who will be seen qualifying their cars this morning at 11 o'clock, and the cars they'll drive, are:

Pete Novis, Detroit, Mich., Hal-D. O. Special.
Chick Smith, Frankfort, Ky., Cregar Special.
Harold Shaw, Indianapolis, Ind., Miller Special.
Al Kettler, Quincy, Ill.
Bill Perkins, Kiethville, La., Miller-Scofield Special.
Buddy Shuman, Charlotte, N. C., Riley Special.
John Dyer, Detroit, Mich., McDowell Special.
Bill Thompson, Detroit, Mich., Miller-Scofield Special.
Merrill Matiyou, Detroit, Mich., Rajo Special.
Dick McCoy, Van Wert, O., Miller Special.
Joe Langley, Ft. Wayne, Ind., Hisso Special.
Howard Adams, Dayton, O., Reichet Special.
Frank Lipto, Detroit, Mich., Riley Special.
Eddie Zalucki, Detroit, Mich., Hal-D. O. Special.
Clair Fuller, Detroit, Mich., Duesenberg Special.
Andy Dunlap, Cleveland, O., Miller Special.
Dick Foster, Toledo, O., Hisso Special.
Charles Rice, Jackson, Mich., Behlmer Special.
George Lynch, Pittsburgh, Pa., Riley Special.
Bill Chittum, Columbus, O., Miller Special.
Farmer Forbes, Windsor, Canada, Dreyer Special.
T. W. McKaskey, Steubenville, O., Hal-O. D. Special.
Louis Weitlauf, Detroit, Mich., McDowell Special.

Three elimination heats of five miles each are scheduled to start promptly at 2:45 p. m., and the nine cars showing the best time in the eliminations will lineup for the big 15-mile feature, and there you'll see the real racing of the day as the top-notch drivers battle for that main purse.

Bobby Feller Stops Slump

Hurls Shutout to End Tribe Losing Streak.

By JUDSON BAILEY

ONE of the reasons given at the start of the season for rating the Cleveland Indians as an outstanding pennant threat in the American league was that they could have no losing streaks. With Bobby Feller bobbing up every fourth day in the pitcher's box, it was figured the Tribe could lose no more than three games in a row. This is exactly how it has worked out.

Twice the Indians have faltered and lost three straight. Twice the husky righthanded ace has stepped in and stemmed the tide. He did it yesterday with a 9-0 decision over the Detroit Tigers, who had had Cleveland on the run all during the first half of the week.

Feller pitched one of his magnificent games, scattering seven hits, striking out eight and allowing only two runners to get past first base—none after the third inning. He was supported by a 13-hit attack on Tommy Bridges and Floyd Giebell. Ken Keltner hit a home run and little Roy Weatherly belted two doubles and two singles.

It was Rapid Robert's tenth victory against two defeats this season. Coming with less than a third of the schedule completed, it held out the enchanting possibility of 30 victories for Feller this year.

While Cleveland was regaining its grip on the American league the St. Louis Cardinals rolled their winning string to ten games for the second time this season with a 10-9 decision over the Cincinnati Reds.

The world champions struggled gamely, shaking up their batting order and using five different pitchers. One result was that Frank McCormick, the National league's most valuable player, upon being dropped from fourth to seventh in the batting order, had a perfect day with three hits, including his ninth home run of the year.

But the Cards scored in six different innings and pulled off four double plays, one of them snuffing out a three-run rally by the Reds in the ninth. It was the fifth straight victory by one run for St. Louis.

The most spectacular individual performance yesterday was the one-hit pitching show put on by bespectacled Bill Dietrich of the Chicago White Sox in shutting out the St. Louis Browns, 4-0. Dietrich, who pitched a no-hit game against the Browns in 1937, also had a two-hitter against Detroit earlier this season.

The only safety off him this time was a single by Chet Laabs in the fourth. The Sox themselves made just six hits against the Browns, but one of them was a homer by Moose Solters.

The ten-game losing streak of the Washington Senators was charitably checked by rain which washed out a five-run sixth inning of the New York Yankees and left the score tied at 2-2.

The Boston Red Sox benched Jimmy Foxx at his own request and punched out a 6-4 verdict over the Philadelphia Athletics, who sank back to sixth place, Ted Williams and Lamar Newsome pounded home runs for the Sox.

New York's Giants bashed the Boston Braves 9-2 in the other of the day's two National league games. Bob Carpenter pitched one-hit shutout ball for eight frames after giving up two runs on four hits in the first. Mel Ott hit his 11th homer of the year and two doubles while Babby Hartnett connected for a home run and three singles to drive in four New York tallies.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—The temperature is around 90 in Washington, but Bucky Harris is skating on thin ice. Even Clark Griffith admits something will have to be done if the Nats don't start going—somewhere. . . . Max Schmelling is one of the few persons privileged to read his own obituary. Personally, we are mighty glad Max is alive and kicking. He was dollar-hungry over here, but a good guy, at that. . . . The Reds are considering shifting Bill Werber to the outfield if Chuck Aleno keeps up his stirring pace at third base. . . . Lou Novikoff, the "Mad Russian," now is the "Glad Russian" because he's started hitting. Bill Terry secretly converting Dick Bartell into a third sacker to replace the erratic Joe Orengo? . . . All right, we're only asking.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY

Well, there's little left for Al Hostak to do except fight Freddie Steele for the championship of Seattle—with Nate Druxman promoting, of course. . . . After the Baer-Louis fight in Washington, Ancil Hoffman, Baer's manager, was asked to go on the air. . . . "It was the rawest decision I ever seen," said Ancil before Mr. Bill Stern peremptorily cut him off with, "that's just your opinion, Mr. Hoffman. Sorry" . . . What was the big idea? Mr. Stern, by the by, kept shoving home the idea that Louis couldn't possibly have heard the bell. We don't care, personally, but readers of this column want to know how Mr. Stern knew.

DID YOU KNOW

That Nebraska sent the largest visiting delegation to the Rose Bowl in the long history of the event. . . . And that 10,000 applicants for the special trains were turned down? . . . We didn't either, until Maj. Biff Jones, the football coach, spoke at a Nebraska dinner here the other night.

SPORTS TABLOID

Tie this one, brethren. Bob Pastor, one of a fivesome playing golf at Saratoga, had a birdie three on the par four 11th hole—but so did every other member of the fivesome. . . . Bill Terry will confound the critics who consigned him to the cellar by revealing the technique that is keeping the Giants in third place on the "Sports Newsreel of the Air" Sunday night. Incidentally, Terry is doing the tops managing job in the majors, so far as this corner is concerned. . . . Jimmy Thompson of the Greenville (S. C.) Piedmont was elected president of the Southern Sports Writers' association when the boys went into a huddle at Silver Springs, Fla., yesterday. Jimmy is an old pal. . . . The fight the Giants are making is attracting the out-of-town trade.

REGISTRATIONS FOR CAMP OPEN

Girl Scouts Making Early Reservations For Season Which Starts July 8.

Registration for the Girl Scout Day camp beginning July 8 has already started, Miss Eleanor Bond, Girl Scout executive secretary, said yesterday.

This is the first year that enthusiasm in the camp has been shown at such an early date, according to Miss Bond, who has 15 reservations now on record for the camp.

As only a limited number of campers can be handled the executive secretary urged that reservations be made as early as possible.

Camp will be held two days a week, Tuesday and Thursday, for three consecutive weeks at the J. H. Nichols farm, seven miles southwest of Mansfield.

The staff is now being set-up and the complete personnel will be completed within the next 10 days. Mrs. G. R. Masquelier, Mrs. M. Lee Hundley and Miss Dorothy Gump are the initial counselors engaged for the season, Miss Bond said.

Public to Benefit By Equipment of Red Cross Chapter

Richland county chapter of the Red Cross is now equipped with a Red Cross first aid tent which will be available to organizations and industries for summer outings or for use in the event of disaster.

The 9x12-foot tent, fully equipped with table, chairs and other regulation First Aid measures, arrived yesterday, according to Bernard C. Hardy, First Aid and Water Safety director of the chapter.

Organizations, churches, schools, stores and factories are welcome to use of the tent, Hardy said.

As a defense measure outlined by national Red Cross headquarters, Hardy is now contacting local firms and factories in regard to establishing Red Cross First Aid units within their own personnel to function in time of an emergency.

He expects to be aided in the project next week by George Costello, national field representative, who will be in Mansfield June 2 to June 6 to further the organization of these units.

TROOP DEMONSTRATIONS TO BE FEATURE OF GIRL SCOUT RALLY

Troop demonstrations of Girl Scout activities will hold an important place on the program at the Mansfield Girl Scout Rally, Tuesday, June 17, at South Park, from 10 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

Taking place after the opening flag ceremony and presentation of awards the demonstrations will feature first aid by Troop 6 and fire building by Troop 2.

Mrs. J. W. Seitz and Mrs. R. D. Iden are in charge of Troop 6 while has had first aid instruction by Mrs. Howard Diller. Mrs. P. C. Davis and Mrs. G. R. Masquelier direct Troop 2.

An original play, "What Girl Scouting Means," will be presented by Troop 9, under the leadership of Miss Kathleen Sturges.

Mrs. Gordon Watson and Miss Barbara Hartman are directing Troop 11 in a playlet concerning Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scouts, in whose honor each local scout will contribute a penny to a memorial fund.

Scouts of Troop 5, who have had the making, tuning and playing of shepherd's pipes as a project this year under the direction of Miss Helen Hartman will give an exhibition of their work. Mrs. Richard Fensch is troop leader.

Brownies are also scheduled for a demonstration.

Parents and friends of the scouts are invited to join with the troops and committee and council members in attending the rally program in the morning, Miss Eleanor Bond, Girl Scout executive secretary, announces.

A lunch will be served to the scouts at noon and the rally will be concluded with folk dancing and an appropriate ceremony.

In the event of rain the rally will be postponed until the following day, June 18.

The committee in charge includes Mrs. P. C. Davis, Mrs. G. R. Masquelier, Mrs. R. A. LeFevre, Mrs. J. W. Seitz, Mrs. Richard Fensch and Mrs. R. D. Iden.

Bonura Clouts Homer to Win for Millers.

(By Associated Press)

Zeke Bonura, that colorful and genial character now playing a lot of first base for the Minneapolis Millers, apparently wasn't joking when he predicted recently he would be back in the major leagues before the 1941 season was out.

* * *

Big Zeke has been belting the ball at a fast clip for the Millers this season. He had only one hit yesterday as Minneapolis downed St. Paul, 7 to 2, but that was a homer in the fourth inning with one on—and it put the Millers ahead for good.

* * *

It was Minneapolis' fourth win in five starts against the Saints. Walt Tauscher, 37-year-old veteran, struck out nine batsmen, and although he allowed two hits in each of the first four innings, St. Paul could not make them count for runs. After that he allowed only three hits the rest of the contest.

The win kept Minneapolis on the heels of the league-leading Kansas City Blues, who downed Milwaukee, 5 to 1.

Louisville nipped Indianapolis, 8 to 7, while Columbus defeated Toledo, 6 to 4.

The schedule and probable pitchers:

Minneapolis (Kelley) at St. Paul (Herring), morning game. St. Paul (Lanahan) at Minneapolis (Haefner), afternoon game.

Toledo (Bildilli and Kimberlin) at Columbus (Brecheen and Dickson), twilight and night games.

Indianapolis (Logan and Fletcher) at Louisville (Hash and Hughson), day.

Milwaukee (Andrews and Schmitz) at Kansas City (Gearhauser and Candini), day.

DYKES DISPLAYS HIS HONORABLE DISCHARGE

CHICAGO —(AP)— Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox proudly displayed a brand new "decoration" today — first of its kind he has ever possessed in his long baseball career.

It was his unconditional release as a player. The document followed his voluntary retirement from the active list May 15. The release automatically cancelled his player contract so he had to sign a new managerial agreement which combined the two previous salaries—reportedly in the neighborhood of $25,000 a year.

"Uncle Jim" broke into organized baseball in 1917.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS
Sale of Bituminous Materials

Sealed proposals will be received until 10 A. M. Eastern Standard Time, Saturday, May 31, 1941, at the office of the Madison Township Trustees, Memorial Building, Mansfield, Ohio, for the furnishing of bituminous materials for oiling roads in Madison Township.

The bidder shall file with his bid a certified check on some solvent bank in the amount of 2% of the estimate, make same payable to Fred Stahlheber, Clerk of Madison Township as a guarantee to enter into contract, and if successful give bond for one-half of the estimated cost of furnishing same.

Bituminous materials must be furnished heated to required temperatures and delivered into Township Distributor truck at Mansfield, Ohio, at such times and in quantities less than car load lots, as ordered and directed by Engineer. All materials must pass the specifications of the State of Ohio, Highway Department for Bituminous Materials, Items M-5, S, effective June 7, 1938.

Engineers Estimate and approximate requirements of materials for year, 1941:

50,000 Gallons Road Oil,

SC-2 @ 06½c $3250.00

The bidders must furnish satisfactory evidence as to finances, experience, equipment, insurance, materials, and storage facilities for each material desired in a total capacity of twenty thousand gallons.

The Township Trustees will not be responsible for any charges for demurrage or car rental due to contract's inability to unload tank cars.

The Township Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Madison Township Trustees,

Per FRED J. STAHLHEBER, Clerk.

35—Lots For Sale

Coolridge Heights
FOLKS, JUST A FEW MORE LEFT. We are closing out all the lots in Coolridge Heights. There were 308 building lots in this beautiful sub-division, with only 30 left. There were 42 houses built here in 1940. There are now under construction this year, six more beautiful modernistic homes. This all spells increased value for the holders of these lots. We are not going to raise the price of the remaining lots, but we are going to sell them at the present price. PRICES RANGE FROM $150 TO $350 Some have paved streets all paid for; water, gas, and electricity; beautiful view over-looking the city; high and dry, away from the dirt and smoke of the city, with two main thoroughfares leading to all the factories. Restrictions prevail. No shacks or trailers will be tolerated here. Drive out at your convenience any evening this week, between 6:00 and 8:00 p. m. Salesmen will be here to help you select your site, or call us, we will assist you. These building sites will make you money. You better hurry. They won't last long. Terms arranged to suit you.

DO AUTO PAYMENTS KEEP YOU BROKE?
Some people keep their car clean and sometimes their car keeps them clean, too!
If your auto instalments or other payments are keeping your pocketbook 'clean' we invite you to come in and talk over your problem with us.
Very often we can reduce your monthly payments as much as one-half . . . often providing additional cash for things you may need or for other obligations you want to meet. Remember —YOU'RE WELCOME!

YES, SIR—THIS IS STRINGTOWN— IT'S NOT AS BIG AS BARNESVILLE, BUT IT'S VERY FINE
SURE, IT'S A FINE TOWN, MY BOY, AND I KNOW I'LL LIKE IT!
NOW WE'LL GET A TAXICAB AND GO UP TO SEE MR. AND MRS. WILCOX
PLEASE, SIR— I WISH YOU WOULDN'T GET A TAXI-CAB!
AND WHY NOT, STEVE?
WELL, SIR, IT'S NOT FAR TO WALK—AN' BESIDES, IT'S BAD ENOUGH FOR ME TO GO IN WITH A NEW SUIT, WITHOUT GOING IN A TAXICAB— YOU SEE, THESE KIDS NEVER HAD NEW SUITS OR RODE IN TAXI-CABS, AN' IT WOULD MAKE THEM FEEL BAD
STEVE—YOU'RE A VERY KINDLY AND THOUGHTFUL SOUL, AND I'M GLAD YOU ARE—AND WE'LL WALK
THANK YOU SIR

DECORATION DAY

1941

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER . . . . A DEFENDER OF TRUE DEMOCRACY

Many are the years that have passed since the first American soldier emerged victorious from the battle which determined a people's right to a democratic life. Many are the battlefields to which soldiers wearing the uniform of the army of the United States of America have carried the spirit of democracy.

Today we observe another Memorial Day. Wreaths will be placed—battlegrounds visited—speeches made—all over the land, in tribute to the men who lived, fought and died that freedom might continue to ring out, here. Yet the best tribute any American can pay these men's memory is to pledge himself to living democratically, whatever part he plays in civil life, or as an active participant in our nation's defense.

PAM—Little Miss Efficiency! By A. W. Brewerton

OH, HE'S DOING FINE! HAVE HIM UP AND OUT NOW IN JUST A DAY OR SO !
I'M SO GLAD, DOCTOR! WOULD IT BE ALL RIGHT IF..
..I ASKED HIM ABOUT A FEW BUSINESS MATTERS NOW? I'VE BROUGHT SOME LETTERS AND THINGS WITH ME. IT WON'T TAKE LONG
OH, QUITE ALL RIGHT! PROBABLY DO HIM GOOD, KEEP HIM FROM FRETTING SO!

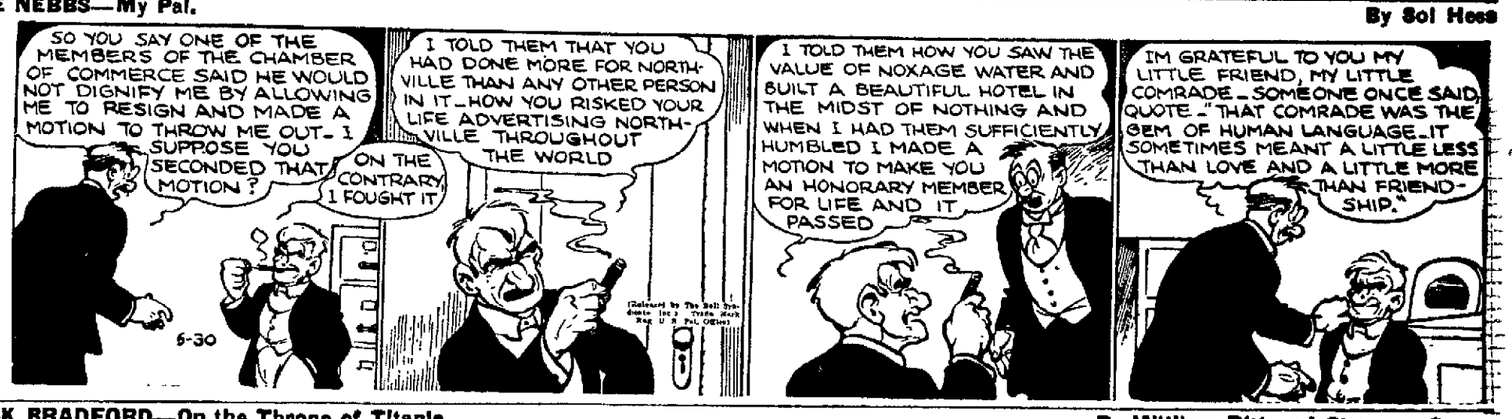
PAM, YOU'RE A JEWEL! DON'T NEED ME AT THAT OFFICE. YOU'VE HANDLED THIS JUST RIGHT!
WELL, I CERTAINLY DO MISS YOU, COLONEL. MISS JEFFREY, TOO— HE LEFT YESTERDAY.
YES, HE CAME BY TO SAY GOOD-BYE.
I KNOW HE MUST HAVE BEEN ANXIOUS TO SEE HIS GIRL BACK HOME.
I SUPPOSE SO! BUT, DO YOU KNOW, PAMELA, THE WAY THAT BOY TALKED ABOUT YOU —WELL, A LITTLE ENCOURAGEMENT AND HE COULD FORGET THAT GIRL BACK HOME!
THEN ON THE WAY BACK TO THE OFFICE, PAM HAD A VERY STARTLING EXPERIENCE !!! Don't miss tomorrow!

THE NEBBS—My Pal. By Sol Hess



SO YOU SAY ONE OF THE MEMBERS OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SAID HE WOULD NOT DIGNIFY ME BY ALLOWING ME TO RESIGN AND MADE A MOTION TO THROW ME OUT- I SUPPOSE YOU SECONDED THAT MOTION ?
ON THE CONTRARY, I FOUGHT IT

WELL, OF COURSE, YOU AND I DESERVE IT, PAT, WE'RE EXCEPTIONS. -BUT THE REST OF THE WORLD- NO.
THAT'S THE MODEST AND UNSELFISH WAY OF LOOKING AT IT - I MUST ADMIT!
WHAT ARE YOU DRIVING AT, DICK?
IT'S JUST MY WAY OF SAYING YOU AND I ARE THE TWO LUCKIEST GOOFS IN THE WORLD! BUT FOR THE KINDNESS OF FATE WE, TOO, MIGHT BE CONSTABLES IN GEORGETOWN!
YES, CONSTABLES WITH BIG FAMILIES INCLUDING A DAUGHTER WHO DROPS COMPACTS BEARING INSCRIPTIONS FROM GANGSTERS ON PEOPLE'S HOSPITAL BEDS!
TRACY, YOU TALK LIKE YOU EXPECT TO RUN INTO TROUBLE!

WANTED FOLKS WHO NEED LOANS TO INVESTIGATE OUR PLAN

Rates are not the same at all loan companies. We publish our payments and our rate of charge to help you shop for a loan.

Loans made to single people and married couples on own signature or furniture or auto. No endorsers on any loan. No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. No delay.

Payments include Household's charges of 2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $300, and ½% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $300. There is nothing else to pay. To apply, phone, write or visit office.

"SAFEST" RAILROAD TO DIE

BRIDGETON, Me.—(U.P.)—One of the nation's safest railroads soon will disappear because of dwindling business. The Bridgeton & Harrison railroad, a branch line powered by diminutive locomotives on two foot gage tracks, has had no one injured seriously in 58 years operation.

ANNOUNCES FOR '42

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(INS)—Working on the theory that the early bird get the worm, Howard Sprouse of Globe has announced his candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1942—scarcely six weeks after Gov. Sidney P. Osborn took office for a two year team.
